THE TRADES DIS- PUTES BILL.

COUNTRY SUPPORTING THE GOVERNMENT.

COMMUNIST FURY.

SOCIALISTS DESPERATION TACTICS.

Unionist members who returned to the House of Commons yesterday (April 25th) to resume the work of the session brought back from their constituencies very favourable reports regarding the reception which has been accorded to the Trade Disputes Bill in the country generally. They have learned that there are thousands of steady-going trade unionists who refuse to accept Labour-Socialist misrepresentations of the objects of the measure and cordially welcome the prospects of greater freedom held out to them by the Government's proposals. Supporters of the Ministry are, as a matter of fact, now fully satisfied that there is a solid mass of public opinion in favour of the Bill, and that the Socialist attack upon it will prove of little account.

The Socialist campaign in the country will be inaugurated at the "May Day" meetings. It is intended that from thirty to fifty Labour-Socialist M.P.s should be released each week from attendance at the House in order to go about in the constituencies endeavouring to work up hostility to the Bill. Even while the proposals are under consideration in Committee the Socialist forces in the House will be depleted in this way in the hope of making capital for the party by these outside demonstrations.

For the battle in Parliament the diminished Socialist forces are to be organised in groups under separate leadership, and each section will concentrate upon a particular part of the Bill. Group leaders and the special subjects with which they will deal will, it is stated, be as follows:—

No. 1.—Mr. Clynes and Mr. Thomas. "Clauses relating to illegal strikes and picketing."
No. 2.—Mr. MacDonald and Mr. Arthur Henderson. "Provisions with reference to the political levy."
No. 3.—Mr. Sidney Webb and Mr. C. G. Ammon. "Proposals relating to Civil Service organisations."
No. 4.—Mr. George Lansbury. "Clause dealing with persons employed by local authorities."

Sir Henry Slesser will be in charge of the attack on the clause which permits an injunction to be sought against a trade union to restrain any application of its funds in contravention of the provisions of the measure.

Temper Of The Opposition.

An interesting indication of the temper of the Opposition is supplied by a report in circulation that it was decided to break off all relations with the Government Whips. This step has been advocated for some time by some of the Left Wing members of the party, but hitherto it has been deemed inadvisable to depart from the Parliamentary custom under which the Government and the Opposition Whips enter into arrangements regarding business in the House.

In the past the Labour-Socialist Whips have agreed with the Government Whips as to the amount of time to be allocated to the discussion of various subjects, and understandings of this nature have been faithfully observed except on occasions when Socialist "back-benchers" have defied their leaders. As there are, according to all accounts, to be no more consultations of this kind, it would appear that a free run will be given to Socialist members who desire to obstruct Government business. The Socialists will be able to claim that they are doing nothing unconstitutional in adopting this course, but it is certainly a departure from tradition.

SLAVES IN THE ARCTIC.

REDS' PRISONERS WHO WORK FOR FOOD ONLY.

PERSECUTION OF UKRAINE WORKMEN.

BERLIN.
Courageous workmen at Ekaterinoslav (South Russia) are continuing to publish from time to time an illegal newspaper which they call the "Workers' Voice." The number for April 4th contains a terrible account of the persecution of non-Bolshevik workmen in the Ukraine.

During February 370 workmen were arrested on political grounds in Ekaterinoslav, 248 on Karkhov, 216 in Mukayerki, 171 in Odessa and 149 in Kiev.

Of these unhappy men 185 have already been sentenced to punishment in the Arctic regions. They are employed in felling wood and are treated as slaves. They are kept in huts and are marched to work and back again under strong guard. They are paid 60 per cent. of the wages of free workmen, but the money is reclaimed by their guards to pay for their board and lodging.

The food is so bad that most of the men are suffering from diseases of the skin. Neither sugar nor tobacco is provided.

including as many as 3,000,000 leaflets.

COMMUNIST MASS CAMPAIGN.

Home Secretary's Disclosures.

Addressing a Primrose League meeting at Twickenham Town Hall, Sir William Joynson-Hicks spoke, in continuance of the Government campaign on the Trade Disputes Bill. "What does the Bill do to which any trade unionist can object?" he asked. "It declares a General Strike to be illegal, and a very good thing too. It forbids lightning strikes of employees of public authorities, electricians, water works, drainage works. A very good clause indeed. Further, it prevents the Civil Service trade union from joining outside unions—equally good. The Civil Servants are not our masters. They are the servants of the nation, and while they are entitled to have their own union or federation, or whatever it may be called, they are not entitled to put themselves under the control of the Third International."

"The Communist party is in a frenzy of indignation. It sent out a circular to all its headquarters and districts last week, urging that the whole Labour world should be stirred up to fight the Bill. But the amusing item in the circular is that it was not only the workmen but the leaders who were to be stirred up. The aim of the Communist party was therefore to mobilise the workers in order to force the leaders to fight, and to force every weapon, up to and including a real general strike, to secure the withdrawal of the Bill. 'Nothing less,' say the Communists, 'then a general strike, will force this Government to withdraw the Bill.' Yes, and nothing more than a general strike will be needed to ensure the Bill passing by an enormous majority."

"And let me warn my colleagues in the House of Commons that they are apparently to be the special object of intimidation by the Communists. They are to be invited to special meetings of the trades councils or to receive deputations from workers at home for preference if they live in the district, and wherever possible these deputations are to be accompanied by mass demonstrations. Concurrently with this all Parliamentary business is to be obstructed, not merely on this Bill, but on all Bills, and a special effort is to be launched against the Right Wing Labour members of Parliament to ginger them up, and, finally, says this precious body, an agitation must be developed in the Labour movement to force the leaders to declare a general strike if the Bill is not withdrawn."

"Now we know where we are, now we know where the ginger is coming from to support this mass intimidation and pumped-up indignation which the country is being treated to at the present time. I urge my hearers not to be frightened or worried. We have fought the Communists before and beaten them; we shall fight them again and beat them; and this Bill will be looked upon in a few years' time, not as a cruel attempt to destroy trade unionism, but as the charter of freedom of all decent trade unionists."—Daily Telegraph.

BLACK CUSHION AND A CRYSTAL.

POLICEMAN'S VISIT TO A FORTUNE TELLER.

WOMAN FINED £25.

Amusing disclosures, concerning a police sergeant's visit to a woman fortune teller were made at Marlborough-street Police Court, when the woman, May Veronica Cave, otherwise Mue, Nadine, aged forty, a widow, of Clarendon-gardens, W., was fined £25 with £10 costs for unlawfully professing to tell fortunes at an address in Regent-street.

Mr. Knight, prosecuting, said that Station Sergeant Goddard and his wife visited Mue, Nadine, and the sergeant had a 10s. 6d. "reading." The room contained a table, two chairs, a black cushion, and a magnifying glass. Sergeant Goddard was told to hold a crystal in both hands. She asked him, among other questions, whether he had a daughter, and he replied,
"No."

Mme. Nadine said, "I see that you will have one."

"Lots Of Money."
She took the crystal from his hands, and requested him to turn them palm upwards, and rest them on the cushion. She examined them and then gazed into the crystal, and told him that he had "lots of money" coming to him from some one in Wales, or it might be Cornwall or Devonshire.

"I see that you know a little about the law, but not much," she stated afterwards. "It does not interest you. You are about to sign a legal document, as I can see some legal papers about you."

She said that one concerned a lease of some property, and she advised him not to sign it.

Mr. Rochford, defending, submitted that Mme. Nadine gave what was merely an entertainment. She told her visitors that she was not a fortune teller.

Mr. Mead, the magistrate, said that the question was whether the woman was telling fortunes. Did she say all she did say intending that the subject should believe it?
He considered that she did.

"There is nothing in this case that would cause trouble to the listener," added Mr. Mead, "but I have had cases in which dangerous things have been said regarding women which might have led to a calamity."

BRITAIN AND RUSSIA.

LABOUR PARTY'S MOTION.
NO WISH TO INTERFERE WITH ORDINARY COMMERCIAL INTERCOURSE.

[BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.]

Reims, May 25th.
To-morrow's debate on the Government's decision to terminate the Anglo-Russian Trade Agreement will arise on a Labour Party motion to the effect that before relations with Moscow are severed a Parliamentary Committee should inquire into the whole issue and should report to the House of Commons thereon.

In this way the Opposition will avoid moving a direct vote of censure, although it is suggested that the Government may decide to regard their motion as such.

The Foreign Secretary will be the principal speaker for the Government and he is expected to review the history of Anglo-Soviet relations with particular reference to the persistent disregard by the Soviet of reiterated warnings, now culminating in the Government's decision to break off relations.

If the House of Commons approve of the Government's policy, a note giving it effect will be handed to M. Rosenzolg, the Soviet Charge d'Affaires, probably on Friday.

The Government have no wish to interfere with ordinary commercial intercourse between Britain and Russia and, consequently, Arcos will not be prevented by them from carrying on business under conditions applying to ordinary trading organisations. Russian employees would be permitted to remain for this purpose, but they would naturally be required to confine themselves to ordinary commercial activities.

Sir Austen Chamberlain was asked, in the House of Commons to-day, how the Government's action would affect big engineering firms on the Clyde, which were carrying out contracts with Russia.

Sir A. Chamberlain replied that there was no reason why it should interfere with any legitimate business.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

Soviet Status in Canada.

MONTREAL, May 25th.
M. Guerus, head of the Soviet Trade Commission in Canada, in an interview, expressed the opinion that it would be unnecessary that the Commission should cease operations in Canada, as it had a different status from Arcos in England.

China And The Break.

Interest among informed Chinese in the Anglo-Soviet break is confined to its effect on the Moscow activities in China, regarding which they are awaiting with great interest to see if Japan will make a move. The breaking off of Japanese-Russo relations would, it is felt, have a far more detrimental effect on these activities than the British action alone. Such break, however, is not anticipated, at least, not at present.

SOVIET REPLY.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, May 25th.
The Soviet Charge d'Affaires in London, Rosenzolg, has made a long statement in reply to Mr. Baldwin's statement in the House of Commons on May 24th.

He expresses amazement and deep regret that the British Government has reached such an important decision on such a flimsy pretext, and such doubtful arguments are used to justify the decision. He declares that two definite conclusions can be drawn from Mr. Baldwin's statement, firstly, that there is evidently not a particle of evidence that the mysterious document alleged to be lost had ever found its way to the Arcos building or was in any way handled by any employee of the trade delegation, and secondly, there is not a particle of evidence that the trade delegation, the Arcos Company, or any of their employees ever engaged in military espionage or any work of a similar nature.

He proceeds to deny scurrilous the Premier's charges, and declares that the British Government's decision is "a death-blow to Anglo-Soviet trade." No complaints were ever made to him with regard to the activities of the Arcos people and trade delegation, or any of its employees. The decision to abrogate immediately the trade agreement is not only a violation of the agreement, but also an unprecedented and arbitrary act in the history of international relations.

The present British Government, which came into power with the help of the notorious Zinovieff letter, has sacrificed the interests of trade and industry and friendly Anglo-Russian relations, and even the peace of Europe and the world, to its blind hatred of the Soviet, he declares. "Everything has been sacrificed to the 'interest' of the party struggles in Great Britain." The Soviet lays the full responsibility for all possible consequences of the rupture on the present Government of Great Britain.

FRENCH COMMUNISTS.

ACTION AGAINST DORIOT.

M. BARTHOU'S STATEMENT.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

PARIS, May 25th.

M. Barthou, the Minister of Justice, addressing a committee dealing with the Government's application to suspend the privilege of immunity in the case of Doriot and other Communist Deputies charged with carrying out seditious propaganda, said the Government's decision to prosecute was unanimous.

The documents concerning Doriot proved that there was a campaign for incitement of a revolt among French troops and the people of Indo-China under French protectorship. The evidence against Doriot was principally contained in a report by the Acting Governor, M. Pasquier, who had collected a number of important documents.

M. Barthou urged that they were confronted not with doctrines in which the right of freedom of opinion was concerned, but with a systematic and continued campaign with the avowed object of disorganisation by a revolt of the forces of national defence. It would be for the Chamber to say whether immunity should continue to be accorded to agitators who openly took orders from foreigners.

LINDBERGH TO VISIT LONDON.

TO FLY THERE VIA BRUSSELS.

[BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.]

Reims, May 25th.
Captain Lindbergh, who flew from New York to Paris, has accepted the invitation of the British Royal Aero Club to fly to London and attend a reception in his honour. The time of his arrival at Croydon Aerodrome has been provisionally fixed for 3 o'clock next Monday afternoon.

The public will be admitted to the aerodrome and Lindbergh is assured of a great welcome. Lindbergh proposes to leave Paris on Saturday and fly to Brussels on his way to London.

BRITAIN AND THE ARGENTINE.

[BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.]

Reims, May 25th.

The King has approved of the raising of His Majesty's Legation at Buenos Aires to the rank of an Embassy, to date from July 9th next, and has approved of the appointment of Sir Malcolm Robertson as His Majesty's Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary at Buenos Aires, to be His Majesty's Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary.

Rosenzolg further states that the Soviet Embassy has had no time to make enquiries with respect to the telegram from the Commissariat of Foreign Affairs to the Soviet representative at Peking, on November 12th last, but the contents of the telegram as quoted by Mr. Baldwin bear on their face all the signs of invention, particularly the construction of the phrases used and the references to non-existent bodies.

Labourite Motion.

LONDON, May 25th.
The Labourite motion for a debate in the House of Commons on May 26th is of opinion that the termination of the Trade Agreement and the severance of diplomatic relations with Russia will have a serious international consequence and close a promising avenue for the restoration of trade and industry, therefore it is a policy to be committed until a select committee submits a report, after examining the documents seized in the raid and fully enquiring into the facts.

The motion will be proposed by Mr. J. R. Clynes, in view of the unsatisfactory state of Mr. Ramsay MacDonald's health.

Canadian Interest.

OTTAWA, May 25th.
Anglo-Russian relations are of special interest to Canada, which alone of the Dominions has not severed relations with Russia. The Canadian exports to Russia last year increased by 50 per cent. compared with the preceding year, chiefly in connection with farm machinery. The imports from Russia were practically nil.

Canada gives Russia a most-favoured-nation tariff. The Government has been kept informed as to the discoveries in the Arcos raid, having received full and confidential reports, and the Cabinet to-morrow will consider Canada's attitude to Russia, in view of Mr. Baldwin's announcement. The Companies trading with the Soviet urge that the Government will not take any precipitate action, that will jeopardise the growing export trade.

"COMMANDER R.N."

A PLEASANTLY DISCURSIVE YARN.

COMMANDER R.N. By Comdr. G. B. Hartford, D.S.O., R.N. (Retired). Published at 10/6, by Messrs. J. W. Arrowsmith, Ltd., London, W.C.1.

A good many of us out here know Commander Hartford pretty well, and perhaps even more of us know Mrs. Hartford, who, we are told in the preface to "Commander R.N." insisted on the compilation of the book by her husband. We are grateful to her. Several extracts from the volume have already been printed, but the author is so well known here, and so much of his story deals with the China Station that we think the book demands a considered review.

We agree with the author in his dictum that, whether or no you have a bad memory, you can always recall the pleasant things that have happened to you. And we think that the very fact that he does not come to us with chapter and verse, and with the actual day of the month annotated in the margin, causes his book to be far more readable than the laborious diary-compiled memoirs of those who perhaps are more regular and methodical scribes than Commander Hartford.

The book is not a serious publication from the point of naval science or political history. It is a discursive yarn that meanders along pleasantly and not too seriously. We have time to fill our pipes and mix another drink between the yarns without losing the thread of the narrative. But on two occasions Commander Hartford does become serious. We are neither a torpedo nor a submarine officer, and therefore it would be presumptuous on our part to say more than that his remarks on the convey system sound pretty good sense. But with regard to his ninth chapter—the "Need for Help," we find ourselves in complete agreement with the author's views on the situation in China.

The great feature of the book, however, lies in the breezy yarns introduced with just a flavour of the real sea to make them palatable. A few we have heard before, and we are indeed pained and surprised at the old Scotchman who told the yarn of the tram-car and the short trousers in Shanghai—mark you clearly after 1906! We well remember kicking our nurse in the nineties for trying to palm that one off on us.

But, on the whole, they and the book itself are excellent and a perusal thereof is undoubtedly like the fourteen days ten A given to the able seaman who looked into the cabin of the governess:—"And worth it, Sir!"

The illustrations are by Lieut.-Comdr. Arthur Watts, D.S.O., R.N.V.R., who, has now left the Service and whose drawings appear regularly in Punch. They are excellent and well set off a very excellent book.

COLONIAL HEALTH

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, May 25th.

The Colonial Conference considered questions of public health, particularly medical research, medical education, the training of natives as dispensers and sanitary officers, the training of native women as nurses, and the provision of efficient sanitary services.

A proposal is being considered for the formation of a joint Colonial Office and Medical Research Council committee to advise the Secretary of State with regard to the management of the Tropical Disease Research Fund, to consider reports from laboratories and research institutes, to co-ordinate schemes of research to be worked out co-operatively, and investigate the whole problem of medical research from the viewpoint of institutions both at Home and Overseas.

LOCAL PROPERTY DISPUTE.

O.S.K. SUED BY LANDLORD.

QUESTION OF WHO WERE LESSEES

A dispute between the Osaka Shosen Kaisha and two Chinese landlords over the matter of a lease led to an action which was commenced at the Supreme Court yesterday, before the acting Chief Justice (Mr. Justice J. R. Wood). The landlords in question, Lam Kun Mow and Chan Tong, sued the O.S.K. of Queen's Building, Connaught Road, Central.

Mr. Eldon Potter, F.C. and Mr. F. C. Jenkin, instructed by Mr. F. E. Nash, are for the plaintiffs, and Mr. H. G. Sheldon, instructed by Mr. G. S. Hugh, is defending. According to the plaintiffs' statement of claim, by a lease dated August 16th, 1918, the premises known as 19, 18A, 19A and 18C, Macdonnell Road, were demised to the defendants for six years with an option of a further term of four years. On April 7th, the premises were assigned to the plaintiffs subject to the terms of the said lease.

Plaintiffs claimed a declaration that the defendants exercised the said option and thereby became tenants of the premises for a further period of four years; (2) alternatively, a declaration that the defendants are stopped from denying that they exercised the said option; (3) specific performance and payment of rent accrued due; (4) alternatively, a declaration that the defendants at all material times were and still are the tenants from year to year, and payment of rent due; (5) alternatively, the sum of $1,012.50; (6) alternatively, in respect of the claim generally, damages.

In opening the case for the plaintiffs, Mr. Potter referred to the various issues that were raised. He said he did not think his Lordship would be troubled very much with fact, and the oral evidence would probably be quite short. In the statement of defence, the defendants denied that they exercised their option of continuing occupation for a further four years, but the payment of rent was not disputed.

One issue raised by the defendants was that the lease was not a lease between the plaintiffs and defendants, but between the plaintiffs and one, Yamasaki, and alternatively that if it was a lease with the defendants, then it was a lease with the defendants, then it was illegal and void under the Companies' Ordinance. They also denied that they were tenants at all, or if they were they were merely monthly tenants.

Who Is The Lessee.

Continuing, Mr. Potter said one of the first points his Lordship would be called upon to decide was who the lessee was. The lease was made by the plaintiffs' predecessor, a Chinese merchant at Canton, and Mr. Yamasaki, manager of the O.S.K. He would not say there was no rule of law that would prevent one from describing a lessee as the manager of a certain firm, but he would put it to his Lordship, and leave it to his experience to decide, that it was most unusual merely as a matter of description to add to the name of a person on a lease, that he was the manager of any particular firm.

By reason of that his Lordship had at the outset a striking point that Mr. Yamasaki was described as the manager of the O.S.K., and that would have an important bearing on a submission he would make. That submission would be that even if Mr. Yamasaki was contracting as the lessee, he was doing so on behalf of the O.S.K., so that in fact they were the real principals.

His Lordship would note that at the end of the lease it was signed in the first instance for Mr. Yamasaki by an attorney, but that had been struck out, and instead of that execution there had been an execution by the defendants themselves, who were, of course, described as lessees.

The plaintiffs attached considerable importance to that change in the execution, which was deliberately done. He was not suggesting that it was improperly done, but it was clearly an execution of the O.S.K. itself, and he would submit it was the most material portion of the lease, and that the only conclusion his Lordship could come to was that the O.S.K. itself were the actual lessees. If his Lordship did not find that, then they would be in the peculiar position of nobody signing the lease so far as the lessees were concerned, and it was obviously a document where a lessee must execute.

Exercise Of Option.

Furthermore, the only persons with whom the plaintiffs had dealt were the O.S.K. They had paid the rent, and paid it on their own cheques, he was instructed. The plaintiffs admitted they were the assignees, and in addition to their claim that the O.S.K. were the lessees, that claim was made on their behalf by Messrs. Wilkinson and Grist, who were acting for them. The latter making that claim showed that until they gave notice to quit they regarded it as an effective lease, and that they had in fact exercised the option, and were tenants under the agreement for the full term.

The defendants were not now in occupation. On August 11th, 1926, they gave notice that they would quit the premises on September 15th, 1926, and from that time they ceased to occupy. The premises had not been let again, because the plaintiffs maintained that the O.S.K. were still their tenants.

Referring to another letter, referring to repairs, from the defendants, Mr. Potter said they claimed in it that they had actually exercised their option. The letter referred to the lease for a term of six years, and after referring to the option of a further four years went on to say, "We do not give up our right for an extension of the lease on the above premises. We are holding on to our right for a further term of the lease." Nothing, commented Mr. Potter, could be more explicit than that. The position was that the lease was actually made with the O.S.K., and they were actually exercising their option.

The plaintiffs wrote a letter in which they refused to accept that position and actually gave them notice to quit, contending that they were merely holding the property as monthly tenants, but later the plaintiffs decided to accept that view of the defendants.

O.S.K. Sued.

Proceeding, Mr. Potter said some money for rent became due, and was held back because the defendants claimed that certain repairs should be carried out by the plaintiffs. Eventually the plaintiffs sued for the sum of $3,000 being four months' rent. That writ was taken out against the O.S.K. and not against Mr. Yamasaki, and in that action the defendants consented to judgment. Mr. Potter added that at that time there was no mention to the effect that the lease was void. If it had been then the $3,000 could not have been recovered.

Referring to another letter, which accompanied the cheque for $3,000, Mr. Potter said they were calling upon the plaintiffs to do repairs by virtue of the terms of the lease under which the premises were held. If it had been a monthly tenancy they would not have made such a request, as they could have left.

Mr. Potter went on to say that the plaintiffs gave the defendants notice to quit, and followed that up with a letter informing them of an increase of rent from $750 to $802 per month. From the answer it would be seen that the defendants took up a definite position, and it was the only answer which could be given to prevent the exercising of the right to increase the rent by 15 per cent.

The letter was to the effect that as they had the right to continue the lease for a further term of three years at the same rent, they were unable to accept the increase. The effect of that answer was that there was still a further three years to run on the option, and that therefore the plaintiffs had no right to impose a 15 per cent. increase. The plaintiffs then accepted that position. The rent had been paid at the rate of $750 per month until their notice to quit in August, 1926.

THE DEFENDANTS' CASE.

Only Monthly Tenants.

Addressing the Court in the afternoon, Mr. Sheldon, for the defence, referred to several points raised during the opening of the case. He proceeded to quote various authorities bearing on these points.

He contended that defendants were only monthly tenants, that being borne out by a letter to the defendants, dated August 22nd, 1925, in which the plaintiffs gave defendants a month's notice.

Mr. Sheldon contended that there was no ground on which the Company could be termed the lessees as the lease purported to be made out between the plaintiffs and the then manager of the O.S.K. in Hong Kong, Mr. Yamasaki. The Company were not parties to the deed and did not execute it, and therefore, could not be the lessees. He did not know on what grounds the plaintiffs held that the Company were the lessees. The only possible way in which the Company would execute this lease would be by their corporate seal on the document, or by their authorities attorney signing it. At the most the Company could only be described in connection with this lease as beneficiaries under Mr. Yamasaki as trustee.

Manager's Evidence.

The present manager of the O.S.K. was called and in answer to Mr. Sheldon, said that Company was incorporated in Japan and in Hong Kong.

Witness gave evidence as to receiving a letter from Messrs. Woo and Nash stating that the rent would be increased by $112 a month, and said he signed a reply which was sent to the effect that he understood that their contract (meaning the lease of 1918 under which the premises were held) still held, good. He understood that there was still about three years to run under the lease.

Signed For The Company.

In reply to his Lordship, witness said that Mr. Yamasaki was the manager in Hong Kong when the lease was signed. He had now retired and was last in Hong Kong about seven or eight years ago.

His Lordship showed witness a copy of the leave with Mr. Yamasaki's signature, which witness said he knew.

His Lordship: Did Mr. Yamasaki signed that lease for himself or the Company?

Witness, after much hesitation and a repetition of the question: He signed it for the Company.

His Lordship: Why are you trying to get away from this lease. It was assigned to your Company. Why do you not want to carry it out?

Witness: We left because we were told by the plaintiffs that we were monthly tenants, and because they would no do repairs.

His Lordship: If you thought the agreement was effective why did not stay on?

Witness: Ah! We were looking for another house. (Laughter.)

His Lordship: According to what you say the contract is that you were there for three years more, and now you have moved away. The tenant must not move away.

No Mention Of Repairs.

Mr. Jenkin pointed out that on the agreed correspondence there was no question of repairs for a matter of 18 months. No complaint was lodged by defendant on this matter for at least 18 months before they left. There was a dispute as to repairs prior to that time, and the matter was referred to Messrs. Leigh and Orange to make a report, which they did, and under this report defendants had to bear part of the cost of repairs. Nothing more was said about repairs, and the matter was dropped.

After further evidence, the Court adjourned until this morning. The case is expected to conclude this afternoon.

ISAKO CIRCUS.

NIGHTLY PERFORMANCE
DRAWS GOOD HOUSE.

SMART PONIES AND BALLET
GIRLS.

It is not very often that a circus continues to draw a good attendance after a prolonged stay, but the Isako Circus playing at Hung Hom is still one of the most popular of the Colony's places of amusement, and this is their second visit within quite a short time.

Last night's performance was of a very high standard, and the many spectators spent a very enjoyable evening.

The pony "Sourabaya" with his latest dances was a delight to see. The flying acts by the four Arkos brothers—Kings of the Air—were thrillingly carried out. The ten dainty and graceful ballet girls were well received and their toe dancing was excellent.

The incorrigible trio—Franz, Ferry and Koko—provoked endless laughter from all parts of the house.

Three matinees are given weekly—Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday—and children are treated to a good show at half price.

There will be a complete change of programme on Saturday.

CHINA SUGAR REFINING CO.

ANNUAL REPORT.

The report of the China Sugar Refining Co., Ltd., which will be presented to the shareholders at the 49th annual general meeting of the Company to be held on Tuesday, June 7th, is now being circulated.

The figures showing the result of the past year's working have already been published. The net loss on the year's working amounted to $29,832.19 after providing for depreciation on the usual scale and payment of interest and all other charges. The balance at debit of profit and loss account thus stands at $1,533,788.05 after bringing forward the debit of $1,503,955.86 from the previous year.

The present Committee consists of Mr. H. P. White, Sir Robert Ho Tung and Mr. L. J. Davies, who offer themselves for re-election. The accounts were audited by Messrs. Lowe, Bingham & Matthews and Messrs. Percy Smith, Seth & Fleming, Incorporated Accountants.

HOSPITAL COMFORTS.

The Committee begs to acknowledge with very many thanks the receipt of parcels of magazines from Mrs. A. R. Sutherland, Mrs. R. Dunlop, Mrs. H. Richardson, Mrs. P. S. Duckworth, and Mrs. A. Morris.

ANTI-FOREIGN FEELING.

HOW IT IS KEPT ALIVE IN CANTON.

PROTEST BY THE SOVIET CONSUL.

THE GOVERNMENT'S REPLY.

[FROM OUR CHINESE CORRESPONDENT.]

General Chien Ta Chun, Garrison Commissioner of Canton City, who is now engaged in directing the anti-Red campaign in the South, is reported to have more than 30,000 men under his control in Kwangtung and on the borders of Kwangtung, Kwangsi and Hunan. These troops, according to the folk-lore of Chiang Kai Shek and Li Tsai Hsin, are available for suppressing any Red movement. In the districts of Wu-hua, Meishan and Dosing the Reds have been terrorizing the inhabitants for some considerable time, but it is now reported that they have been suppressed. Swatow is also said to be free of the Red element but although under an anti-Red regime the merchants do not seem any more inclined than previously to subscribe to the loan being raised for the payment and disbandment of the Canton strikers.

It is stated that secret agents in Canton who have been searching what were supposed to be the Red headquarters have discovered evidence that the Reds were preparing to use bombs in the Southern Capital. At a house in Tai Pei Chik Kai Street a large quantity of explosives were found. In addition to strengthening the defence of Canton City the Canton military authorities have also stationed more troops at Kowloon.

It must not be imagined that the establishment of an anti-Red Government in Canton means the entire elimination of all anti-foreign or anti-imperialist propaganda. Display announcements are now appearing in all Canton newspapers explaining why May 30th the day on which the clash between the Chinese rioters and the police occurred in Shanghai in 1925—should be observed as a memorial day. These announcements give details of how the Imperialists are alleged to have "butchered innocent Chinese" and they are certainly not calculated to strengthen friendly relations with the British. The public are fed on lies for what particular purpose no one knows.

The Canton Foreign Office to whom the question of having a further inscription on the June 23rd memorial near the Shamen gate on Shaki Bund has been referred have not yet come to any decision in the matter. June 23rd is the anniversary of the shooting in Canton in 1925. The small monument near the Shamen gate has the inscription in Chinese "Don't forget this date." Now some people want to have the words in English also.

The Soviet Consul in Canton has complained that some anti-Red agents appear to think that every Russian is a Red and that these agents have caused no little embarrassment and inconvenience to Russian residents in the City, especially those in Tungshan, the eastern suburb of Canton. The Canton authorities have assured the Soviet Consulate that no discourtesy will be allowed towards their nationals.

Mr. T. T. Lee, a follower of Mr. Sun Fo, from whom he received his present appointment, will soon be replaced as the managing-director of the Kwangtung section of the Canton-Hankow Railway by Mr. Lam Chik Min, a former head of the line and a close friend of ex-Governor Hu Han Min, who has recently returned to power in Canton-Nanking politics.

Mr. Lin Wen Kai, Mayor of Canton, is offering his services as arbitrator in the dispute between the rice merchants and the employees over rates of pay. It is not thought that there will be a suspension of the rice trade or a strike.

Canton militarists now announce their willingness to repeal the recent order requiring every traveller to pay a war tax of 20 per cent. on railway or steamship tickets.

Landlords in different parts of Kwangtung are expressing dissatisfaction over the recent decision of the Canton Authorities to prohibit them from raising the rentals of their property. The landlords of farm lands were last year made to reduce their rent charges by 20 per cent. According to the landlords, they should be given the privilege of advancing the rent in reasonable circumstances, especially in cases where the value of land has much increased.

A landslide, caused by the heavy rains, occurred at Laitung on the Yueh Han Railway on Tuesday and is still interfering with the railway traffic.

Troops from Canton have captured Ichang, in Hunan, according to the latest reports reached the Southern Capital.

Canton troops are still leaving Shikwan daily for the Kwangtung-Hunan borders for the campaign against the "Reds" in Changsha. A late telegram to the Chinese Press says that Changsha has already fallen to the "anti-Reds."

The Kwangsi Provincial Administrative Council, which has its seat in Nanning, capital of the province, consists of the following: Li Chung Jen, Huang Shao Hung, Pa Chung Hsi, Lui Hwai, Huang Su, Wu Ting Chang, Yu Tsu Pa, Lui Pei Hung, and Chu Chao Lin.

Mr. Wang Wei Pu has been appointed chief clerk at the Canton Bureau of Agriculture and Labour, in place of Mr. Tam Kwai Oi, an alleged "Red," who is under arrest as a political suspect. The report that Mr. Tam has been executed has not yet been confirmed. The chief clerk at this bureau is one of the most important officials in Canton. He handles all correspondence relating to the Kuomintang Administration and the labour unions.

The silk trade junkies in Canton have recently formed a combination to resist the pirates. They will refuse to pay the pirates in order to be allowed safe passage from silk producing centres to the City.

General Chiang Kai Shek, now of Nanking, has wired to Canton advising military officials not to interfere with local civil affairs.

The Canton Gazette, is to be taken over, pending further re-organisation, by the Propaganda Commission in Canton. Mr. Ho Sze Yuan, acting Chairman of the Commission, will assume temporary control of the journal. Mr. Henry C. Lee, the editor, was deprived of his post last week on the ground that he was a "Red." The Propaganda Commission has decided to allow Tai Kwong Pao, or True Light Daily News, of Hong Kong, to circulate in Canton.

THE CHAMELEONS.

A report received in Canton states that Mr. Wang Ching Wei, General Tan Yen Kai, Mrs. Sun Yat Sen (the second one), and her step-son, Mr. Sun Fo, have all declared themselves "anti-Red."

Mr. George Hsu Chien, however, is understood to be willing to stand by M. Borodin, and he has deserted his former associates in the Kuomintang in order to be with M. Borodin, whose exact whereabouts, just now are unknown, although rumour says that he has gone to Nanchang.

Mr. Eugene Chen, the Kuomintang Minister of Foreign Affairs in Hankow, has not communicated with his former comrades in Canton for some time. Mr. Wei Yuk, Mr. Chen's assistant in Canton, is still in charge of the Foreign Office. He will use the name of Dr. C. C. Wu, instead of Mr. Chen, as the head of the Office.

The Canton Naval Command is calling for candidates to enter its newly organised training school for marines. A hundred qualified persons from 18 to 20 years old will be chosen among the candidates presenting themselves for examination.

YOUNG WIFE'S DEATH.

ACUTE OPIUM POISONING.

FATHER-IN-LAW'S CROSS-EXAMINATION.

Yesterday afternoon the Court was again crowded with well-dressed Chinese when the fourth hearing of the inquest into the death of a young Chinese wife came before Mr. R. E. Lindsell, sitting as Coroner with a jury, at the Central Magistracy.

The deceased, it will be remembered, died of opium poisoning on April 22nd. She was married to a school-boy just about four months before her death, and from the evidence given at the previous hearings, it appeared that she had been on good terms with her husband, so much so, that the bereaved husband said that he did not think that his wife had taken her own life. Evidence given by the deceased's father was to the effect that the dead woman and her mother-in-law had not been on good terms. The deceased had, it was alleged, complained to her father of the behaviour of her mother-in-law with a certain young man at Canton.

Post-Mortem Not Wanted.

Evidence was taken from Dr. D. J. Valentine yesterday, who said that he had attended the deceased at the Government Civil Hospital, shortly after her admission. She was in an unconscious state and her symptoms gave indication of narcotic poisoning. The contents of her stomach were removed with the aid of tubes and sent to be analysed. Stimulants were injected and artificial respiration applied but to no avail. She never regained consciousness and died at 5.45 p.m. on the day of her admission.

Her husband was at her bedside all the time and appeared to be much upset.

After the deceased had passed away, the question of a post-mortem examination was raised, but some one approached witness and said that a post-mortem examination was not wanted. The next morning when the question was again raised, somebody had changed their mind and asked for a post-mortem examination, Dr. Valentine added.

Pupils Dilate Before Death.

Cross-examined by Mr. Armstrong, who appeared for the husband, witness said that he had seen many cases of opium poisoning before.

Mr. Armstrong: Was that a very bad case?—Yes, it was acute poisoning.

Mr. Armstrong: Did you diagnose at once that it was opium poisoning?—No.

Mr. Armstrong: Then what made you think it was narcotic poisoning?—In the absence of any particular disease, I took it to be narcotic poisoning. Also there was the look of respiration which made her look bluish in the face.

Mr. Armstrong: Did you notice her pupils?—Yes, her pupils were large. The rule in acute opium poisoning is that the pupils should be very small, but just before death they dilate. Pupils always dilate when respiration failed.

Mr. Armstrong: Was her mouth open?—It could be opened, for it was relaxed.

Mr. Armstrong: Can you form any idea as to what time she had taken the opium?—No, I cannot say.

Dr. Valentine then added that seeing the condition that the deceased was in at 2 p.m. when she was brought to the hospital, he would say that the opium must have been taken two hours before. And he added, if she had taken from 20 to 25 grains at 1 p.m., she would undoubtedly be in that condition at 2 p.m. that is, if she had an empty stomach.

Mr. Armstrong: Supposing she did take 20 to 25 grains and was in that condition when you saw her, could you say in what form she had taken the opium?—I am not conversant with Chinese ways of taking opium.

Mr. Armstrong: If she had been addicted to take opium, what would be the effect of the dose she is supposed to have taken?—There might be no effect at all.

Pills No Effect.

At this stage the question of the pills which the deceased's father gave her to take to soothe certain pains of which she had complained was again raised, and Mr. Armstrong asked Dr. Valentine whether those pills which contained .030 grain of opium to 100 pills would make her an addict if she had continually been taking them. Dr. Valentine said that in his opinion he did not think that the dose in pills was sufficient either to develop the habit or to make the deceased immune from the effect of a large dose.

In answer to Mr. M. W. Lo, who appeared for the father of the deceased, Dr. Valentine said that 20 grains of opium on an empty stomach would cause the loss of consciousness in about 20 minutes.

The father-in-law of the deceased was then called to the box. He said he is the proprietor of the Wing Loong Hong firm at 198, Queen's Road Central, and that he had been in business in the Colony for 31 years. His kit fat wife died about 40 years ago and he had remarried. This wife is now in the country. He lives with his concubines. The No. 2 concubine was the mother of deceased's husband. He had married her 23 years ago.

Got On Well With Deceased.

After testifying to his son's marriage with the deceased at Canton and their subsequent return to Hong Kong, he said that he had always got on well with his daughter-in-law. He had never prevented her from visiting her parents, except on one occasion, at the time of her step-mother's confinement. He was requested by his women-folk not to allow the deceased to visit her people at such a time, as it was considered bad joss.

He said that the deceased had always appeared to be perfectly happy, but her health had been poor and she often complained of pains in the neighbourhood of her heart. The deceased had never hinted at any disagreement with the mother-in-law.

Questioned as to his movements on the day of deceased's death, he said that on that morning he first saw deceased at 9 a.m. A Chinese doctor was attending on her then. When the medicinal herbs were brought back, he compared them with the prescription and ordered it to be boiled.

Before he went down to attend to his business, his No. 2 concubine (the mother-in-law) left the house to see a doctor herself. When he returned to the floor where the deceased lived, about 4 hours after he heard the deceased groaning in her room. He did not go in to see what was the matter, but he telephoned for the doctor.

Severe Cross-examinations.

In answer to the Coroner, witness said that he could not offer any reason why the deceased should poison herself. Nor could he explain how she had obtained the opium. The opium he smoked was always kept under lock and key, and no one but himself had access to it.

The Coroner: Do you know if there is a second key to the cupboard where the opium was kept?—I do not know if there is one. But I can swear my key was on me that morning. He further explained that he took some opium out at 11 a.m. that day to have a pipe himself, and after that he attended to his business.

The Coroner: You did not have a nap after your pipe?—No.

Witness then stated that he had not raised any objection to deceased going to hospital or to the post-mortem examination.

At this stage the police sergeant in charge of the enquiry told the Court that on the night of the death of the young wife, the witness and his son (deceased's husband) went to see him and asked that a post-mortem examination should not be held. This witness denied, but when pressed by the Coroner, he admitted that his son had been to see the sergeant.

Cross-examined by Mr. Armstrong.

Cross-examined by Mr. Armstrong, witness said that the deceased was a very gentle young woman and always gave him a smile when she saw him.

Deceased Brother And Concubine.

Cross-examined by Mr. Lo, witness said that he smoked about 3 maces of opium in a week, and that he had been in the custom of buying the opium from the Government through his shop coolies.

Mr. Lo: Do you still say that your No. 2 concubine had gone out before the herbs came back?—She was not there.

Mr. Lo: Have you got a younger brother?—Yes.

Mr. Lo: Have you got a younger brother who died when he was 21 years old?—He died at the age of 23, but not in my shop.

Mr. Lo: Did you have a brother who was so unfortunate as to die in your shop?—No.

Mr. Lo: Did you have a third concubine who died?—The third and fourth are dead.

Mr. Lo: I suppose the third died in your shop?—No, in the country.

Mr. Lo: How about the fourth?—This one died in my shop.

At this stage the Coroner adjourned the enquiry until Monday at 11.30 a.m.

A KONGMOON STEAMER CUSTOM.

PASSENGERS' TOUTS AND THEIR "BAGGAGE."

EUROPEAN SKIPPER FINED $250.

Interesting light was thrown on the working of Kongmoon steamers yesterday when the case against Captain Charles Andrews Mutton, master of the s.s. Wing On, was brought to a conclusion before Lt. Comdr. J. B. Newell, D.S.O., R.N., at the Marine Court. The summons was for loading cargo on a Sunday without a permit.

Capt. Mutton, who was represented by Mr. J. T. Prior, told the Court that in his ten years' experience of Kongmoon steamers, he found that on every vessel there would be over 100 passengers' touts employed. These men did not get a salary but were allowed a free passage to and fro, and in return, they canvassed for passengers and helped to look after the cargoes of either consignees or shippers. They also did a little trade themselves, and no freightage was levied on any merchandise which these touts might bring on board. It was always classified as their personal "luggages" and not entered on the manifest.

The troublesome thing about these touts was that they did not bring their "luggages" on board on a Saturday for fear of losing them because the goods are not tallied and no one is assigned to look after them. They therefore bring it on Sunday, just a few hours before the ship sails, and in this case, they were found out and caused trouble to the master of the vessel.

Capt. Mutton added that it was only three months ago that he was summoned for a similar offence, but on that occasion he was acquitted, as the goods were proved to be the belongings of the touts and were not taken on board as cargo.

Cross-examined by Inspector Brown of the Water Police, Capt. Mutton said that altogether the touts sometimes brought over 100 tons of merchandise on board as "luggages."

Inspector Brown: If the flour, rice and medicine found by the Police were "luggages," then why were they put with the cargoes?

Capt. Mutton: The cargoes and passengers all were on the same deck together.

Ho Sui Cho, purser of the Wing On, said that they employed about 100 touts and that these men made a living from tips given them by the passengers and whatever profit they could make out of the little trading they do themselves. He said that invariably the touts only carry small parcels of merchandise, and for these no freights were charged. "When they try to bring a big quantity on board, we won't allow it," he added.

Chan Fuk Chun, a tallyman, said that the ship had completed loading on Saturday and on Sunday he was off duty and so was the other tallymen. And the fact that no tallymen were on duty on Sunday, he said, meant that no cargo was being brought on board.

The owner of the Wing On, Mr. Wong Puk Tung, corroborated the evidence of the previous witnesses in regard to the working of the ship with the assistance of passengers' and cargoes touts. He also mentioned that on whatever goods the touts bring on board, no freights were charged.

"The Benefit Of The Owner."

Addressing the Court, Inspector Brown said that his contention was that the goods were actually brought on board the ship by the touts, but they were acting for the benefit of the owner. "There must be some reason for the owner issuing 100 free passages to the touts and it is simply inconceivable that they are allowed to bring merchandise on board the ship how and when they like. There must be something in it," concluded Inspector Brown.

Mr. Prior addressing the Magistrate said that the prosecution thought that there was a possibility that the "stuff" did not belong to the "runners or brokers," but they had not proved that point definitely.

"Whether the goods were personal luggage or not is still a point in dispute, but I think it is safer to assume that the 'stuff' was personal belongings. These runners or brokers are employed on all steamers on that run and this has been the practice for over 30 years."

His Worship: Then there is no limit to the amount that may be placed on board as personal baggage. A shipper wishing to place 700 tons of rice on board on Sunday has only to find a few cargo runners and the goods would be transported to Kowloon without trouble. I cannot accept your plea, Mr. Prior. I must enter a conviction and impose a fine of $250.

BRITISH FILMS IN THE EMPIRE.

It is interesting to learn that American film companies are making strenuous exertions in England to defeat the Cinematograph Films Bill. This measure proposes to abolish blind and block booking, and requires the inclusion of a small but progressively increasing percentage of British films in every cinema performance in the United Kingdom. The importance of encouraging the production of British films that conform to national standards of taste and culture has been previously emphasised in our columns. But formidable difficulties have hitherto confronted producers. There was lack of capital, of organisation, of really good films, and moreover the theatres were in the grip of American film magnates. The grip still continues, but it shows signs of loosening.

The Bill now before Parliament is designed to remove the more serious handicaps; and one of the immediate results has been the formation of British companies with ample capital for the production of British pictures that will compare with the best sent out from Hollywood.

It is satisfactory to find that the American lead in film-making is to be definitely challenged under conditions that should ensure ultimate success. But the lead which the Americans were able to obtain while Britain and the Empire were engaged in the world war will not be relinquished without a struggle.

Recently meetings of the leading companies were held in secret to debate the problem how they could meet the position created by the Films Bill, and although they do not appear to have come to any agreement among themselves they are evidently determined not to remain inactive. Their travellers are tremendously busy in Great Britain trying to sell to cinema managers the mass product of Hollywood for 1928—that is, films that have not been seen and many of which are as yet unmade. As in the past, the lever which is used is to agree to supply one or two productions of outstanding merit as a condition of acceptance of a quantity of crude and vulgar rubbish. Efforts are also being made to obtain the support of the Socialist party in the House of Commons for American interests, and members are waited on daily for that purpose.

In spite of these manifold activities we believe that in due course British films will come into their own. The discussion of the subject at the Imperial Conference from the standpoint of Empire is having a salutary effect. No argument is needed to prove that foreign films which are often either imbecile or injurious to our national reputation should be replaced by pictures produced under British control. Australia has taken a bold step. The Commonwealth Government are holding an inquiry into the position of the film industry in Australia, preliminary to the introduction of legislation intended to encourage the production of Empire pictures. The Australian public are extremely anxious to receive a larger percentage of pictures made under British auspices, and the Dominion offers a great and promising field for exploitation. British films are, it is stated, on the authority of Professor WALLACE, the chief censor, showing a slight increase in the total number imported, and an improvement in entertainment value.

What is true of Australia holds good of other parts of the Empire. There is a real desire to show pictures that are true representations of the habits and customs of the English, and not as so often happens a bad and misleading caricature. Mr. RAMSAY MACDONALD has said that it would take fifty years of good government to undo the harm done by ten films in misrepresenting the Englishman on foreign screens, and he has not overstated the facts.

BELATED GREETINGS.

FROM COLONIAL OFFICE CONFERENCE.

The following telegram has been received by H.E. The Governor from the Secretary of State for the Colonies. It is regretted that it arrived too late for earlier publication:—

"The Colonial Office Conference assembled in London send Greetings to you and the people of Hong Kong on the occasion of Empire Day."

H.E. The Governor's Reply.

The following is the reply which has been sent by H.E. The Governor:—

"On behalf of Hong Kong I thank the Colonial Office Conference for its Empire Day greetings, which are cordially reciprocated here."

H.M.S. Dona ship's Company are holding an At Home on board to-morrow.

One case of small-pox and one of cerebro spinal fever, both Chinese, were reported on Wednesday.

Lieut. Comdr. G. F. Hale, R.N., Harbour Master, has resumed his duty after a successful operation for appendicitis.

There is to be another Social Gathering, to which Service men are particularly invited, at St. John's Cathedral Hall, following evensong on Sunday.

Yesterday was the birthday of Her Majesty Queen Mary, who was born in 1867. According to usual custom all warships dressed ship and a salute was fired at noon.

A Chinese was found lying on the Praya East on Wednesday night with stab wounds in the neck and back, and was removed by the police to the Government Civil Hospital.

A Chinese who was arrested at 14, Second Street, for the possession of 229 spurious ten cent pieces was yesterday morning sentenced to four months' hard labour by Mr. R. E. Lindsell.

The Peak Club are holding a dance for members and subscribers this evening, beginning at 9.15. The band of H.M.S. Titanis will be in attendance, and a special late train will be run at 12.30.

Mr. Remedios, living at Fanling, has reported to the police the theft from his garage of a spare wheel, an accumulator and a tool-box, the total value being given as $237.

A Chinese was removed from his home at No. 18, Chinese Street, to the Government Civil Hospital on Wednesday, in a serious condition. It was stated that he drank "Lysol" disinfectant, mistaking it for tea.

Five Chinese have been arrested in connection with the armed robbery at Shapo, Aukoo, on May 16th when a gang of men raided a shop in the village on the pretext of buying aerated water and made a haul of money and jewellery worth over $200.

A Chinese constable stationed at Kowloon City is alleged to have miscondacted himself as a public servant by seizing an opium pipe belonging to the occupier of No. 61, Sha Po, Kowloon City, and demanding $3 for the return of same. The hearing of the case is fixed for Thursday next.

Said by the police to have deserted his post to join the pickets at Canton during the 1925 strike, an ex-Macao Indian policeman, named Jhandu, appeared before Major C. Willson yesterday morning on a charge of vagrancy. He was sent to the House of Detention on the application of Detective Sub-Inspector Elston.

The "Squeakettes," a well known and popular local troupe of entertainers, especially among the Forces, were in excellent form last evening, when under the direction of their talented leader, Mrs. C. Russell Brown, they gave a delightful matinee performance for children at the Helena May Institute. The youngsters heartily enjoyed the entertainment.

According to Straits papers, H.E. Sir Hugh Clifford, G.C.M.G., G.B.E., the new Governor of Malaya, will make his official landing at Johnston's Pier, Singapore, at 4.15 p.m. on June 2nd, and the Oath will be administered in the Council Chamber at 5 p.m. The usual King's Birthday ball, following the Ceremonial Parade in the morning, is to be held at Government House on the evening of June 3rd.

Eight Chinese were charged before Major C. Willson yesterday morning with gambling in a house in Hillier Street which was raided by police officers. For the defence, Mr. Hin Shing Lo pointed to the small amount of money seized and asked for leniency. The first defendant, who was the principal tenant of the floor, was fined $50, another $25, and the remainder, $3 each.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL VACANCY.

ONLY ONE NOMINATION RECEIVED.

MR. W. E. L. SHENTON TO SERVE DURING ABSENCE OF SIR HENRY POLLOCK, K.C.

Yesterday was the last day for receiving nominations in connection with the electing of Justices of the Peace of one of their number to serve on the Legislative Council during the absence from the Colony of Sir Henry Pollock, K.C.

As was anticipated, the only candidate was Mr. W. E. L. Shenton, of Messrs. Deacons. He was proposed by the Hon. Mr. D. G. M. Bernard, seconded by the Hon. Mr. A. G. Hynes.

Mr. Shenton is thus returned unopposed as a representative of the Justices of Peace.

VOLUNTEERS PARADE.

PRACTICE FOR KING'S BIRTHDAY CEREMONIAL.

Judging by the smartness of the turn out of the contingent of the Hong Kong Volunteer Defence Corps who mustered at Headquarters last evening for a practice parade, the Corps should by no means suffer by comparison with the men of the Regular Forces when they take their part in the King's Birthday Parade next week at Happy Valley.

The members on parade last evening executed the various movements which form part of the ceremonial with precision and confidence and with a final "polish up" at their full dress rehearsal next Monday evening at the Valley, they should come up to the full military standard.

Yesterday morning there was another interesting parade of troops, with a muffled Naval band on Murray Parade Ground. The parade was watched by large numbers of spectators.

OBITUARY.

MRS. B. WATTS.

One of Hong Kong's oldest residents—Mrs. B. Watts, widow of Mr. S. W. Watts—died yesterday at 65, Bonham Road. Mr. Watts was at one time head of the firm of Dakin, later taken over by A. & S. Watson.

Mrs. Watts, who was 77, came to the Colony in 1894, but for the past 15 years she has been paralysed. The funeral took place during the afternoon at Happy Valley, the Rev. H. Copley Moyle conducting the service.

Wreaths were received from the following: Mrs. P. R. Marsh, Miss Ethel Smith, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. C. Burnett, Mrs. William Shewan (Sister), Amah (after 16 years' service).

The chief mourners were Mrs. W. Shewan and Mrs. Farmer.

EMPIRE DAY CONCERT.

TO BE HELD AT K.C.C. ON SATURDAY.

It will be remembered that the Empire Day Concert arranged to be given at the Kowloon Cricket Club on Tuesday evening had to be postponed on account of unsettled weather conditions. Now that the weather appears to have changed for the better, and a fine spell is expected, this concert is to be given at the Club grounds, to-morrow evening.

The programme is to be provided by the full band, and the pipe band and drums of the 2nd King's Own Scottish Borderers, and it will begin at 9.15. Highland dances will also be performed.

The concert is under the patronage of H.E. the Governor (Sir Cecil Clementi, K.C.M.G.) and the proceeds are for the Hospital Comforts Fund.

Tickets at $1 for civilians, and 50 cents for Service men can now be obtained.

Those intending to be present are advised to secure tickets early, for there will be no superfluous seats in view of the very fine programme, which includes popular marches, and selections, and concludes with a Grand Military Tattoo, in which band and pipers take part.

SUSPECTED MURDER.

POLICE SEARCHERS BUSY IN CASTLE PEAK DISTRICT.

WOMAN'S MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE.

This week a party of police and detectives have been busily engaged in digging in the mud-flats and searching the hill sides in the Castle Peak district. Their activity is connected with the mysterious disappearance from that neighbourhood of a Chinese woman.

When the woman was not seen about and inquiries failed to elicit a satisfactory explanation, certain information was laid with the authorities, and a man was this week taken into custody and is detained on suspicion of murdering this woman.

Various rumours have been current in the district in question and stories from Chinese sources have been spread to the effect that the woman has been murdered and her body buried.

Another theory is that she has not only been murdered, but that her body has been cut up into parts which have been buried at various points to avoid discovery.

Working on this theory, the police have organised search parties and these, in the course of their search, have dug in the mud in the hope of bringing to light some evidence of the crime which is believed to have been perpetrated.

So far only a pair of trousers have been found, but whether these belonged to the missing woman has not been definitely established, although some Chinese in the district are said to have identified them. However, this is by no means definite and no proof that a crime has been committed has come to light.

Gross Rumour.

Another story current is that a dog was seen running away in this particular neighbourhood with a section of a human limb, but it is doubtful if there is any truth in this story. It was, however, one of the rumours that gave rise to the theory that the woman who disappeared has been murdered, and her body cut up into pieces.

Meanwhile, digging and the search continue.

SON ROBS MOTHER.

A GAMBLER AND A WASTREL.

TO BEGIN WORK NOW—IN PRISON.

A young Chinese who, according to his mother, had never done an honest day's work, was yesterday sentenced to six months' hard labour by Mr. W. Schofield, at the Kowloon Magistracy on a charge of theft.

The young rascal had been systematically robbing his mother and wasting his money on cards. The mother thinking that if a certain amount of responsibility were placed on him, he would turn over a new leaf, and she, therefore, got him a wife. But the plan did not work and the disillusioned wife gave him up and went back to her parents.

Money and articles of jewellery continued to find their way out of the mother's strong box, until the old lady got so exasperated that she reported the matter to the Police. When the Police located the offender in a gambling house, he on him had a gold watch, a ring and $10 in cash all belonging to the family treasury.

ANOTHER JUNK PIRACY.

FISHING BOAT RAIDED.

The story of another piracy in Chinese waters was related by the steerman of a fishing junk which has reached port minus the master who is being held for ransom. The junk was on her way to Hong Kong from Fanloong, Pinghoi district, on Monday at 9 o'clock. When about a mile from shore she was approached by a Hoko boat containing about 15 armed men. The pirates fired on the fishing junk and forced her to stop. Then men went on board. Ransacking the place they stole money and jewellery worth $180. They also took the junk master on board their craft and sailed towards shore.

PROTECTION OF FOREIGNERS IN NORTH CHINA."FULLY ASSIGNED TO JAPANESE MILITARY AND NAVY."*WHAT THE DIPLOMATIC CORPS "UNANIMOUSLY APPROVES?"*LARGE BODY OF JAPANESE TROOPS FROM JAPAN.

According to a report, stated to have emanated from foreign sources, in one of the local vernacular newspapers, the Diplomatic Corps has unanimously approved of a resolution that "precautionary measures towards protecting foreign nationals in North China be fully assigned to the Japanese military and naval authorities."

A Reuter telegram states that the Tokyo War Office is requesting the Japanese Cabinet to sanction the despatch of seven or eight battalions of troops to Tsingtao for the protection of Japanese lives and property there.

The Fengtien Army have launched a new offensive in Honan, where they are reported to have 110,000 troops against the "Reds" 70,000.

Yunnan's Tupan, General Tang Chi Yao, is again reported to be dead, and as the report is stated to have come from a "foreign source," the report may not be "an exaggeration" on this occasion.

NEW OFFENSIVE ON MORE TROOPS FROM HONAN FRONT. FENGTIEN.FENGTIEN ARMY OF 110,000 AGAINST REDS 70,000.*[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

PEKING, May 26th. Military headquarters announce that the Fengtien Army launched an offensive in the Honan front early this morning. The Fengtien troops number at least 110,000 while Tang Song Chi (who is opposing them) has 70,000.

JAPANESE TROOPS FOR TSINGTAO.[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

TOYO, May 26th. The War Office has decided to request the Cabinet to sanction the despatch of seven or eight battalions to Tsingtao for the protection of Japanese lives and property. Infantry will be sent from Manchuria and cavalry, engineers and Army Service Corps from Japan.

(Wah Tsai Yat Pau).Nationalist Government and Japan's Precautions.

SHANGHAI, May 26th. In view of the fact that the Japanese Government has decided to despatch a body of Japanese troops, to be stationed along the Tsinan-Tsingtao Railway, under the "flimsy pretext" of protecting the Japanese nationals, the Nationalist Government has authorised the Foreign Minister, Dr. C. C. Wu, to take up this matter seriously with the Japanese Government.

Another victory over the North-erners at a point a little north of Pengpu is claimed by General Yeh Kai Yin, who announces that he captured twelve heavy guns from the enemy during the battle.

The Pengpu-Pukow section of the Tientsin-Pukow Railway, which has been paralysed since the fighting in that section, has been repaired and both military and passenger traffic has been resumed since the 25th inst.

BRITAIN AND THE SOVIET.CANADA FOLLOWS MOTHER-LAND'S EXAMPLE.PRESS COMMENT.[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]*OTTAWA, May 26th.

The Canadian Cabinet has decided to terminate the Trade Agreement of 1921 with Russia.

The Premier, Mr. Mackenzie King, explained that, although evidence in the possession of the Government did not reveal any subversive propaganda on the part of the Soviet mission at Montreal, certain conditions of the agreement had been violated, in respect of the clause requiring the Soviet to refrain from hostile actions or undertaking, and conducting, outside the Soviet borders, official propaganda against the institutions of the British Empire.

Mr. King pointed out that the termination of the Trade Agreement did not mean the discontinuance of trade with Russia but that certain quasi-diplomatic privileges enjoyed by the Soviet Trade Mission in Canada would be abrogated. Canada would continue to trade with Russia but without a preferential trade arrangement.

On the contrary, M. Guérin, head of the Soviet Trade Mission has announced that the immediate result of the Canadian Government's action would be the cancellation by the mission of a recent agreement to purchase 4,000 Canadian horses. He added that the commercial activities of the Mission would continue possibly for six months, after which he expected that the whole Mission would be withdrawn, leaving Canada no facilities to trade with Russia.

Tokyo Press Comment.

The vernacular newspapers generally, while emphasising the possibility of serious developments, consider that the Anglo-Soviet break was inevitable, though the Kokumin, while censuring Russia for attempting to encompass Britain's downfall by subversive propaganda and intrigue, accuses Britain of deliberately seeking an excuse for severing relations by carrying out the Arcos raid.

The Chuo considers that the Anglo-Soviet Trade Agreement facilitated Moscow's efforts to stir up revolutionary movements. The general impression appears to be that the revelations made will deal a heavy blow at the Soviet. Politically, economically and, above all, morally, as it will serve to discredit Moscow in the eyes of the whole world.

[REUTER'S AMERICAN SERVICE.]America Pleased With Britain's Attitude.

NEW YORK, May 26th. Public opinion, reflected in the newspaper editorials, appears overwhelmingly to approve of Mr. Baldwin's attitude towards Moscow, though, unconcerned with the United States, Mr. Baldwin's charges are generally believed here and the United States never recognised the Soviet. It is impossible yet to ascertain the attitude of the State Department, but it is said in political circles that certain information obtained by the British Government in the raid is already in possession of the officials of the State Department and is being studied with interest.

CEYLON'S NEW LEGISLATION.STATEMENT BY MR. L. C. M. S. AMERY.*[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]*LONDON, May 26th.

Mr. Amery, presiding at the Corona Club Dinner, mentioned that, early improvements in the Colonial Services were likely to result from the Colonial Conference, and he hoped that before many years there would be an interchange between the Colonies and the Colonial Office and that one Colony and another would be as free and natural as the fighting services.

In the course of a general survey of the Colonies, Mr. Amery said that the new Legislative Council of Ceylon had worked not unsatisfactorily, although, like the House of Commons it sometimes preferred the silver of speech to the more valuable gold of silence.

A Special Commission was going out in Autumn to advise on amendments required for the Constitution.

They also agreed to extend the policy regarding the Seminole Oilfield to the whole State of Oklahoma.

LETTER BOX THEFT.TRAP LAID FOR THE OFFENDER.

In view of several complaints received that letters have been missing from letter boxes, Mr. Perpetuo, Superintendent of Mails of the G.P.O., kept a careful watch over the private letter boxes and as a result of his vigilance a Chinese was arrested on May 20th after being allowed, it was stated, to open the box of Messrs. Mackinnon, Mackenzie, the China Mail and the Bank of East Asia.

The man was brought before Major C. Wilson yesterday at the Central Magistracy, and evidence was given by Mr. D. C. Wilson of the China Mail to the effect that the defendant had once been employed by the firm as an office coolie but he had never been authorised to collect letters. Representatives from the other two establishments also testified that they had not seen the defendant before and that they had never permitted him to collect their mails.

The defendant when arrested had four keys in his possession, two of which attested the letter boxes mentioned above. He also had a piece of paper on which were tracings of three keys. A few stamps were also found on him. These were supposed to have been taken off from previous spoils.

The defendant was committed for trial at the next Criminal Sessions.

A NEW ERA FOR MALAYA.EFFECTS OF THE NAVAL BASE.*IRON, May 26th.

The General Officer Commanding, Major-General Sir Theodore Fraser at a farewell inspection of the Ipoh Volunteers, yesterday complimented them on their turnout and afterwards made a striking speech in which he laid stress on the point that the creation of the Naval Base radically changes the character of the whole of Malaya as an Imperial outpost.

The Base, he said, marks the beginning of a new era in the whole of Malaya, not merely one end of it. Not merely the harbours, but coast and the interior might become the area of major operations in war.

He added that it was important for all to visualise this. He had specially selected Ipoh to say it because Ipoh was supposed to be far removed from war's alarms, but he hoped other places would heed his words.

The General left for Taiping to-day.—Straits Times.

"THE DIVORCE QUESTION."WILBUR PLAYERS BEST PRODUCTION.*A WELL CONSTRUCTED PLAY.

"The Divorce Question" is perhaps the best play which the Wilbur Players have given us during their visit to Hong Kong. It has not the humour of "Abie's Irish Rose" but it has an essential feature of good drama which was lacking in the other pieces; a quickly moving plot.

The question of divorce is, of course, highly controversial, and in order to press home his point of view the author of "The Divorce Question" has possibly taken a somewhat unusually disastrous example. One felt at times an exasperation at this highly coloured version of the wrong which divorce may do, and again at the unnecessary sentimentality of the action. Yet it is certain that the audience were deeply moved and interested. Had the play been shortened in several places, the emotional effect would have been far more poignant, but it takes a great artist to say a thing forcibly and then leave it. This over-elaboration of an emotional crisis is particularly noticeable in the second act.

A lighter vein is admirably introduced by the young couple who want to "get married quick" in case either of them change their mind before the 3 weeks required by laws have elapsed. Bearing as it does on the subject, this amusing little romance is an excellent foil to the tragedy of the main action.

Mr. Anthony Baker who has been consistently good through a number of difficult roles was certainly well suited in the part of Father Kelly, and his voice was clear and well modulated which is a fine improvement on his voice technique in his other parts.

Mr. Kneeland Parker also came to his own as Doris Doe and gave a really remarkable performance. In fact it was noticeable that each member of the Wilbur Players who had a part of any length in "The Divorce Question" played with a greater degree of skill than we have seen in them before.

It may be that the play is far better constructed, or that it gives a better chance for acting, or possibly that the players themselves, coming as they do from the country of easy divorce, were voicing a personal belief in its moral. However that may be the performance of Messrs. Baker and Parker of Miss Underhill and Miss Meserere were on quite a different level to what we have seen previously. We should also add that Mr. Cartwright who was very good as the Irish manservant though at times he mixed his brogue with his native accent in a fashion rather bewildering to English ears.

Miss Tove Lindholm only had a very small part which she played with the charm we have learnt to expect from her, and Mr. Earle Hodgins was good as Mr. Lockwood though we liked him better as Matt Peasley in "Cuppy Ricks."

The Wilbur Players have certainly had a successful visit to this Colony, and have given pleasure to a large number of residents and to our troops. We wish them every success in Manila and we shall offer them a warm welcome when they return here with a new repertoire in some six weeks' time. Many thanks and the best of luck to the Wilbur Players!

E.M.B.AT THE QUEEN'S THEATRE."THE CHEERFUL FRAUD."[BY OUR FILM CRITIC.]

Reginald Denny and his crooked smile always get a welcome from a cinema audience, more especially perhaps because the average Denny film is good straight comedy with plenty of laughter and not unduly complicated.

"The Cheerful Fraud", which is at the Queen's to-day and to-morrow is a typical Denny film, we have impersonation, crooks and the nouveau riche, and a misunderstanding that lands the comedian with an unwelcome "temporary" wife. All good ingredients there with a thunderstorm thrown in, and it is consequently an amusing film which old and young will enjoy.

The heroine is played by Gertrude Olmstead, a member of the band of rising stars, who are realising that the day of the fluffy flapper and the "vamp" are past. It is a treat to have a charming girl acting gracefully and simply and all who are interested in the cinema will be glad to see that this type is gaining prominence.

Otis Harlan is not a well known name but his performance in "The Cheerful Fraud" leads us to hope we shall see much more of him, as a pathetic little Mr. By-the-Way harried by his wife, by his money and by the girl in his past, he is exquisitely amusing.

The third lesson in the Charleston proceeds the big film and caused many twitches of the last night. The film is undoubtedly an excellent method of teaching dance steps.

The WOMAN'S PAGE

FLOWER FANCIES.

The big manufacturers of artificial blooms are, we read, preparing for a flowery summer. All manner of materials are used to fashion the latest posies. Flowers of silk, velvet and organdie are accustomed to, but flowers of glass, of straw, wood shavings, of cork or feathers are something new.

The organdie flowers come in a variety of lovely and delicate shades usually light at the heart and tipped with a deeper tone. The Chinese chrysanthemum is perhaps the favourite flower to wear as a shoulder knot or at the hip, and is made of organdie shredded into strips which are cunningly curled.

Fragile, delicately attractive blossoms on slender stalks are made of blown glass, and are again mostly used on the shoulder of delicate dance frocks. There are boutonnieres

JUMPER SUITS FOR EVENING WEAR.

Supple black satin charmeuse decorated with two large roses of grey georgette and applied silver tissue makes an attractive jumper for evening wear, and is added to a finely pleated skirt of grey georgette.

The shoulder bow reminds the floral posy in popularity, and on this model the bow of black satin is lined with grey georgette.

The other jumper suit illustrated has a skirt of black velvet and a jumper of dull gold lamé featuring the "slimming" Etana sash, and lacquered embroidery.

A little upstanding collar fastened with a bright red button is a new note.

made of tiny beads sewn onto fine net generally in the shape of rose buds half opened and surrounded by green leaves.

Some of the latest hats are trimmed with plaques of a patch work of velvet leaves and flowers. Circles, half circles, or triangles are made up of a dozen or more different flowers in skillfully blended and contrasted colours.

I saw a short time ago at the Sign of the Lantern a lovely hat trimmed with flowers made of cork painted and varnished, and I was delighted to see there yesterday a drawer full of the posies made of wood shavings treated in the same fashion. They are the more appealing because of their lightness, so often the line of a crown straw is spoilt after a very short time by the weight of the blooms which trim it.

These are posies and sprays to wear on the hip, and in every case the colours and shapes are so exquisite that it would be hard at any little distance to say whether they were real or of silk.

THE VIZIER AND A PEACOCK.

Once upon a time there ruled over a certain district of China, a cruel and wicked king, who oppressed his people with taxation and passed his days in feasting and watching the dancing of the beautiful girls with whom his palace was filled. Beyond the boundary of his great pleasure parks the people were starving, and in the next kingdom armed men were being gathered together to invade his dominions. The people would have welcomed any change of ruler, but the king was as indifferent to war as to the sorrows of his subjects. In all the country only the Vizier sought to save the kingdom and daily in vain he besought the king to lead his armies to its defence. Yet with all his faithful efforts, the king, has left a permanent memorial for the vast empire of China is named after him, despite the fact that he was deposed.

This was the story told me by an assistant of the Swatow Lace Company. I wish I could reproduce it in his own picturesque phrases. The good Vizier has not been forgotten for his story has been embroidered and painted by patient Chinese craftsmen ever since his death some 500 years ago. It decorates one of the charming little boxes which the Swatow Lace Co. have just received. The gentle looking old man in his blue robe, is seated in his garden, trying to think of some way to save his country. Above his seat spread the branches of a big tree and in the distance a quaint red bridge spans a stream.

These boxes covered in black satin with all sorts of interesting and lovely designs embroidered on them, are in various shapes for gloves, trinkets or handkerchiefs. I noticed one oval box with a peacock whose spread tail glowed on an old gold field which I liked particularly, and there are many others with designs copied from old mandarin embroideries.

BY THE WAY.

"ILLUSION UNBLES." "Undies" seem to get prettier and more fragile day by day, but there does not seem to be much "illusion" about the new Van Rautel glove-silk lingerie that has just arrived at Powell's unless it be the illusion that it isn't there at all! The material is like a very fine silk poplin and it comes in the faintest of pastel colours. It seems impossible that these gossamer garments should with fine net or lace can be worn, but like the stockings and gloves made by the same firm they are indeed strong and durable, and delightfully cool in wear.

MISS HOLLERS.—The Sign of the Lantern has received another shipment of those dainty rice-cake holders which are designed as menu holders. The most picturesque of the newcomers is a charming little lady with slanting eyes and rosy lips who wears a green dress and a gorgeous flowered head-dress. She has an unsheathed sword in her belt and her hands are lost in the folds of her long sleeves.

MARPLE SHEETS.—Marple sheets, I was told at Whiteaway, Laidlaw's, have come down again in price. They are guaranteed against the ravages of English washerwomen but, unfortunately, not against the wash amah. They are certainly the strongest bed linen on the market and are soft and fine.

TRAVELLING RUGS.—I saw some delightful travelling rugs in the same shop made of soft camels hair wool in various colourings and patterns for $37.50.

HORS D'OEUVRES.—The French Store have just got bottles of mixed Hors d'Oeuvres from France which save a lot of time and work in preparation and are a delicious selection.

PEKINGESE TEA-COZY.—The latest tea cosy is a full sized Pekingese made in artificial fur with a most lifelike head and tail. I saw too, a black cat who performs the same office, both in Powell's.

A NEW WAISTCOAT.—I saw the most fascinating waistcoat in Rolande Sarraut's. It is made of fine soft suede cut out in an all over design so that it looks rather like Richelieu work. Rather draughty perhaps but very chic.

THE BRIDE'S DINNER PARTY.

Preparations for a dinner party nearly always mean a wrinkled brow and much anxious thought on part of the hostess. Since a dinner party is the most formal entertainment which we give now-a-days, the arrangement, appointments and service need to be as faultless as possible. A little hitch may be smoothed over in the comparative informality of a lunch or a dance, but men, and our severest critics, other women, demand a very high standard at a dinner.

Aunt's Vase.

Possibly the greatest ordeal which a young bride has to face is her first dinner party. She herself, her house, and her arrangements are going to be faithfully noted and criticised even if in the most kindly spirit. The greatest pitfall that lies in her way is the indiscriminate use of as many wedding presents as possible on her table. "Aunt will like to see we are using her vase, and Mrs. X. will think we don't like it if we don't have her epervier on the table." But unless the bride has been lucky enough to have had present which "fit in," she will be wiser to risk disappointing a few people in order that her table may be an harmonious whole.

Two tones of the same colour are often allied in the manner shown above in day and evening gowns. It can at times be an economical plan.

An Important Item.

The bride should remember that she is the most important, and should be the most attractive, feature of her party. Therefore, however house proud she may be, a good rest with a mind free of all worries, is essential before dressing, and her gown should be carefully chosen.

It used to be the fashion for a bride to wear her wedding dress for the first dinner she gave, but now that so many brides choose either period or dance dresses, this convention has gone out, and a simple evening frock may be worn instead. I saw such a one in Lane, Crawford's, at once girlish and with that slight air of importance which is so appealing to the newly made wife.

The choice of a dress should always depend on the circumstances in which it is to be worn. Just as, for example, it is the back and the line of the skirt which is most observed when dancing, so when the hostess is seated at her table it is mainly the front of her bodice which people see. After dinner she will probably either be sitting down or moving slowly about the room talking to her guests. The particular dress of which I spoke covers all these requirements. The material is soft powder blue georgette, and it is cut with an open sleeveless jacket and a tiered skirt. The jacket which can be taken off showing a rounded neckline, is trimmed with a border of glass beads in a slightly deeper tone, and has a very pretty soft line, with a cape effect at the back. There is a large soft posy at the waist in tones of green and lavender, from beneath which falls a tiered cascade. Of course, the colouring of the dress must depend on that of the bride and of the room, but in style this dress would be admirable.

The Table Cloth.

The dressing of the table is only a little less important than that of the hostess. Either table mats, for which plain embroidered linen is now more fashionable than lace or a well polished cloth look equally well. If the latter is chosen the damask design is a matter of some moment. Few people, and unfortunately, still fewer manufacturers seem to realise that the beauty of a design depends largely on the position in which it is used. You see a pattern designed round an oval or circle on a square table and vice versa, and even delicate sprays of flowers standing on their heads where the cloth falls over the edges of the table. If the damask pattern is of any value at all it is meant to be an integral part of the table decorations. For use with an epervier or elaborate centre piece choose a cloth with a plain centre or table mats. It is unnecessary to elaborate this theme, but I saw a very pretty cloth in fine old bleached linen in Lane, Crawford's in a design of orange blossom, which would be graceful and appropriate for use at a bride's first dinner party.

The China.

The 1927 design china ware which I saw at the same shop is very lovely. One desert service is called "Spring time" and has a powdered blue surface and a tiny border of brightly coloured flowers and a dinner service "Monteale" has small groups of conventional flowers on a parchment coloured ground. In both these designs the ground colours have been chosen with the object of giving a peculiarly bright and jewel-like effect to the tiny flowers, and both are particularly pretty and distinguished looking services. The latest pattern in table glass is the "St. James" which is deeply fluted half way up each glass and has the delicacy of crystal.

THE "LITTLE FROCK."

In place of the chemise dress which held its own so long, Paris has inaugurated the "little frock," and very charming it is. Tucks and pleats and tiny tiers—all those quaint and dainty accessories which look so simple and chic need the most skilful handling. The "little frock" is not a garment for the amateur dressmaker unless she has peculiar genius.

I was in Rolande Sarraut's on Wednesday, and Madame took me behind the scenes and introduced me to the latest arrivals from Paris. They reminded me of fragile blossoms as an assistant lifted them from their tissue paper. There are among them several white frocks—one in chiffon with delicately painted sprays of flowers to decorate it. The pattern and the little tiers on the skirt give it an old world flavour which is very pretty. A white silk dress is trimmed with tiny rose buds and squares of fine embroidery, and here and there a gold thread. There is a white muslin dress very simply made with a fichu collar, and another chiffon dress with a wide stripe of small flowers round the skirt and straight down the middle of back and front.

Of the coloured dresses I thought a yellow georgette patterned with a blue flower and finished with a blue belt and a tiered skirt was exceedingly smart. Another belted model is made in Tissue Rocher which is rather like a fine silk sponge cloth. Another new idea is a dress of cotton voile with a very lovely design painted on the finished garment with spots of metal paint, which catch the light like beads but are less ornate, and have not that unfortunate habit of coming unseen.

These were just a few of the little frocks from Paris, but I have not space to tell you about them all, Rolande Sarraut's window will be decorated by some of them by the time you read this and you will find the others inside.

Food And Trifles.

The condiment sets, silver, cutlery and table lamps or candles should be chosen to follow out the idea suggested by the dinner service and the general furnishing of the room.

The question of a menu is too wide to enter into in this article but the bride would do well to remember that "feed the beast" applies to both sexes equally, and the question of drinks is her husband's province.

CLOISSONNE.

The art of Cloisonné is as old as that of glass making or of enamelling, specimens have been found in the tombs of Egypt whose colours are as bright as when they were made some 3,000 years ago.

The earliest European cloisonné work has been found in Russia, mostly as ornamentation of small trays or boxes. The delicacy of the patterns and the brilliancy of colour make early Russian cloisonné much sought after by collectors. Austria learnt the art from the Russians, and her craftsmen brought it to a pitch of perfection only equalled, by the best Chinese and Japanese work.

The Chinese do not claim an independent invention of the art which they trace back to Constantinople, generally ascribing its introduction into their Empire to the Arabs. Old Peking cloisonné is more highly appreciated by connoisseurs than any other enamel work in the world; though, for beauty of design and fineness of craftsmanship, the Japanese, who learnt the art from the Chinese some eighty years ago, are hard to equal.

How Cloisonné Enamelling Is Done.

Cloisonné enamels, or cell enamels, are made by soldering a narrow band, or ribbon, of copper, silver or gold on a metal foundation in the shape of a vase plate or other article. These ribbons follow all the intricacies of the design which has just been drawn on the object to be enamelled in Chinese ink. The ribbons parcel out the field into as many cloisons or cells as there are colours to be filled in so that the surface of the vase is covered by a trellis work of metal. The craftsman then proceeds to fill the cells with moistened enamel colours, which have been ground to a fine powder. Only a thin layer of enamel is applied at one time and between each layer the piece is fired sometimes as many as eighteen firings being required.

Polishing.

When the cells have been filled to the level of the ribbons there still remains the most difficult and lengthy part of the work. The decorated vase is continually rubbed and polished with moistened pumice stone, to remove any pitting in the surface of the enamel and to reduce the upper surface of the ribbons to the finest possible thread. This polishing unless skillfully done may ruin all the previous work for it is easy to chip the enamel or to break the ribbons during the process. It is perhaps for this reason that objects decorated with cloisonné, which have an angular rather than a rounded surface, as for example, a very lovely triangular vase at Komor and Komor's which has an arrowhead leaf water plant in natural colours on a white ground, are considered the most valuable. When the polishing stone is used on a rounded surface, it is not so likely to slip as when working in a comparatively constricted field with sharply defined borders. Cloisonné enamels are generally made on a copper foundation with the ribbons of the more modern work is on silver, while the ribbons are often of silver or gold, sometimes ribbons of all three metals being used on one piece in order to blend with the colours of the enamels they surround.

Wireless Cloisonné.

This use of silver or gold ribbons was an invention of the Japanese cloisonné workers and a further invention "wireless cloisonné" is due to a Japanese artist, Namikawa of Tokyo. Wireless Cloisonné has, of course, the wires or ribbons to divide the cells, but these are filled so high that even the polishing does not bring them to the surface, and the effect is rather like an underglaze painting with peculiar soft edges, and entirely unlike ordinary cloisonné.

Transparent Cloisonné.

Mr. Komor told me an interesting story of how he rediscovered the art of transparent cloisonné. He bought many years ago in Paris a small cup of what appeared to be cloisonné but which instead of being backed by metal was as light and translucent as egg shell china. He carried it with him to London and consulted the director of the South Kensington Museum as to its origin. The London expert suggested that it was Russian work, but the director of the Museum at Vienna whom he next consulted, said that it was Austrian made in the time of Maria Theresa, and that, while transparent cloisonné had enjoyed a vogue in those days, there was very little of it to be found now and the secret of the art had been lost.

COOKERY.

There is really very little reason why good Singapore curries should not be served in Hong Kong, since most of the ingredients are in the market. Though there are dry curries in the Malay States they are not quite the Indian variety and the wet curry is far easier to arrange. The foundation of the sauce in which everything is cooked is coconut juice, and this should be liberally flavoured with chopped herbs, which are abundant in the local market. A little good curry powder is added not too soon, as the heat giving properties evaporate very quickly in cooking, and the whole must be cooked in a covered pot. Cayenne pepper must be added to the strength desired about three minutes before serving, and whatever the main dish is to be, it will be improved by a separate dish of curried eggplant, or cucumber, with slices of potato added. Cal's Head (previously boiled till tender) is a good substance for curry, and with it can be served a very fresh young beef kidney, sliced, fried, and stewed in the curry sauce until very tender. Rabbit is usually obtainable at the Dairy Farm, and when nicely jointed, or the meat cut into squares, if desired, it is less insipid than chicken. Prawns are excellent, but they don't suit everyone, and are apt to become tough unless cooked so gently that the pan never reaches boiling point.

Various chutneys are served with all curries, but some can be made at home easily enough. 1 lb. of apples, 1 lb. sugar, 1 raisin, 1 brown sugar, 2 teaspoons of pepper, a salt spoon of cayenne, 4 teaspoon caraway seeds, 2 or 3 chillies, tablespoon of salt, a breakfast cupful of vinegar. Prepare ingredients, put in the pan with the vinegar, and boil, adding the chillies when the chutney is thick. Bottle and cover. Essence of Celery. This is prepared by soaking for two weeks, half an ounce of the seeds of celery in a quarter of a pint of brandy. A few drops will flavour a pint of soup, equal to a head of celery. Mint Vinegar. Place in a wide-mouthed bottle, fresh, nice, clean, mint leaves to fill it loosely; then fill up the bottle with good vinegar. After it has been closely corked for two or three weeks pour it off clear into another bottle, and keep it well corked for use. This is for serving with lamb when mint cannot be obtained. A few freshly chopped bits of mint put into this vinegar make a better sauce than the more usual method.

A Rare Treasure.

You can see just such a bowl fitted as a lamp in Mr. Komor's shop to-day, the last specimen he has of transparent cloisonné, and which owing to the great cost and difficulty of the work may well be also one of the last to be made. The bowl is decorated with a design of chrysanthemum flowers and the light shines through it, it glows like a stained glass window, indeed a rare and lovely treasure.

The Empress's Vases.

I spent one of the most interesting afternoons I have known when Mr. Komor took me round his shelves and showed me specimens of cloisonné enamels, and explained to me the way in which they were made and the history of the various pieces. From water ewers of Old Peking cloisonné, down to a quite modern Japanese box with a delicate jewel-like design of partridges and flowers on a black ground, each seemed to have a special fascination of its own. He pointed out to me the cunning use of ribbons of different metals in the pair of big pink vases which every visitor to Komor and Komor's must have noticed. The veins of the leaves are silver, the delicate lines of gold and in some of the deeper toned blossoms copper has been used to separate the cells. These vases are two, which were made at the same time as the eight pairs ordered by the late Empress of China, in case any accident in the firing or polishing should happen to one of the sixteen. They stand about five feet high and Mr. Komor told me he would not undertake to make any others of the same sort as the price to-day would be quite prohibitive.

RACING NOTES.

[By RAPIER.]

Hong Kong Jockey Club 4th Extra Meeting.

I have the following observations to make on the handicaps but I rather hope that the actual results will justify the Handicapper as it is unsatisfactory to see the same ponies continually in the picture.

"A" Class Handicap, 6 furlongs.—"King of Troy" should be more heavily penalised for having won at the last Meeting and "Battle Eye" and "Home Call" should carry penalties for having filled the second and third places. They have been allotted the same weights as before. "September" should obviously be in "B" Class.

"B" Class Handicap, 6 furlongs.—The "Regent" finished second in this race at the last Meeting and now carries no penalty. "Barley Grass" finished third and carries 3 lbs. less than before. Placed and winning ponies should invariably be penalised.

"C" Class Handicap, 6 furlongs.—Loch Rannoch should be transferred to "B" Class on account of having won this race at the last Meeting by four lengths. "King Alan" and "Easter Day" should be penalised for filling the second and third places. The latter pony carries 2 lbs. less than before. "Bing Boy" should be at the most 137 lbs. not having been placed at the last Meeting.

Beaufort Handicap, "B" Class, 1 1/2 miles.—"Lacada II" having been placed third in this race at the last Meeting now carries 2 lbs. less than before instead of being penalised.

Of course, other ponies than those mentioned may be doing well in the training but after all they should be allowed the benefit of any improvement they may make meanwhile.

The first and second can be played for on the same round, but separate cards must be taken out before playing.

BRITISH OPEN AMATEUR CHAMPIONSHIP.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, May 25th.

At Hoylake, a young American student, named Haley, who entered from Sundridge Park, defeated Tolley in the third round by 4-0.

Tolley's conqueror is a New Yorkite, who is studying the leather trade in London. He had not played before in an open competition, and said that it is a fine exciting game. "I sometimes thought I was a 'goner,' but Tolley was very unlucky at the bunkers." Other giants to fall were the ex-native champion, Robinson, who was another of Sutton's victims by 3 up and 2 to play. The latter was seriously regarded for the title. Wetherhead beat Hassall (Bromborough) 3 up and 2 to play. Capt. Johnson (St. Andrew's) beat Hezlet 5 up and 4 to play.

THE DOUBLES EXHIBITION.

FIVE SET MATCH.

After many postponements the exhibition doubles match in aid of the Indian Recreation Club Pavilion Fund was played yesterday on the Stand Court in the Hong Kong Cricket Club ground. The four semi-finalists of the recent Open Singles Championship of the Colony featured in the match, S. A. and H. D. Runjahn being opposed to Ng Sze Kwong and T. Honda.

As an exhibition, it was somewhat disappointing and although five sets were played before a decision could be reached, the general run of play was not above the average standard seen in the championships just concluded. The Runjahn cousins eventually won by three sets to two, the final scores being 6-3, 1-6, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4.

Play opened in favour of the Runjahns and they won the first set without being extended. The second set went to their opponents somewhat easily. Ng Sze Kwong distinguished himself and it was mainly through his efforts that the score was brought to one set all.

The Runjahns, however, retaliated by 3-1, took the set at 6-3. Showing up well, Ng Sze Kwong and T. Honda won the fourth set after a close struggle and much excitement prevailed when they went on to lead 4-2 in the final set. The Runjahns, however, now made a great effort and after some fast play took the next four games to win the set and match.

Ng Sze Kwong Brilliant.

Of the four Ng Sze Kwong showed up best and he gave a delightful all round exhibition. The Chinese star was consistently aggressive throughout, scoring many beautiful overhead "aces." His backhand had also some of its old time sting and he placed judiciously. He did not receive the support expected from Honda, or the match might have ended differently. Honda was noticeably weak outside. The two played together for the first time and their combination was not at all bad.

The Runjahns played their average game but were not quite as accurate as usual. S. A. Runjahn again showed plenty of enterprise, and his cousin played his usual cool and skilful game.

THE LEAGUE.

C.R.C. v. I.R.C. To-day.

Commencing at 5.15 this afternoon, the Chinese and Indian Recreation Clubs will meet on the former's courts in the "A" Division of the Tennis League. A great deal of interest is being taken in the match. As the teams are reckoned to be the strongest and the winners will probably finish champions. If the Indians win, they must beat the University, who are an unusually strong side, to win the Shield.

The Clubs will be represented as follows:—(Chinese) Ng Sze Kwong and C. Chao, M. K. Lo and Ng Sze Cheung; M. W. Lo and Yew Man Kit. (Indians) S. A. Runjahn and A. H. Runjahn; I. M. Kazak and H. D. Runjahn; S. H. Ismail and J. A. Cassumbhoy.

Offer to finance non-European XI match.

Iron, May 18th.

In view of the failure of the Kuala Lumpur organisers in the matter of a non-European eleven to meet the Australians there and the Tour Committee's offer of a one-day fixture, Ipoh, if the Singapore representative fails to arrange the cancellation of one Singapore match, in order that a non-European match may be played, Perak enthusiasts have readily grasped the opportunity of staging a non-European match at Ipoh if the best of such players in the Colony and other States will agree to travel.

This scheme is purely an individual effort, resulting from a well-known resident offering to guarantee all expenses of such a match, also the expenses of his team, thus completing Kuala Lumpur's sporting effort.

The proposal to play was submitted to the Perak representative of the Tour Committee for consideration by the Tour Managing Committee at Kuala Lumpur and their decision is expected to-morrow.

Three Singaporeans will be invited, three from Penang and the rest from the States.—S.F. Press.

CRICKET IN MALAYA.

THE AUSTRALIAN VISIT.

NOTES ON THE ALL MALAYA TEAM.

The following notes on the players who have been selected to represent All Malaya in a three-day match against the Australians starting at Kuala Lumpur on June 3rd, appear in the Straits Times:—

G. M. BRAND (Selangor).—Malaya's out field. He is also a fairly reliable bat.

A. J. BOSTOCK-HILL (Selangor).—Selangor's captain and the only lawyer cricketer in the state. He is undoubtedly the best all round cricketer in Malaya to-day. An excellent medium paced bowler, he has captured more wickets in first class cricket than any other bowler in the country. As a batsman too Bostock-Hill has been showing much improved form recently.

Capt. C. H. CONNOR (Singapore Cricket Club).—One of the best bats in Singapore and a very valuable player for the S.C.C.

As a cricketer played for the Royal Naval College, Dartmouth and on several occasions for the Navy and Army against county and other teams.

N. J. A. FOSTER (Negri Sembilan).—One of the old stagers and perhaps the most popular up-country cricketer at the present time.

He is a breezy batsman possessing a hard drive and on his day can be depended on for good things. As a captain he certainly has no equal either in Selangor or Perak.

W. N. HANSELL (Singapore Cricket Club).—Of the Hong Kong Bank, is another very valuable S.C.C. bat. Played for the Yorkshire Gentlemen's Cricket Club, then, going to Shanghai, represented that settlement in inter-provincial matches in 1920, 1922 and 1923. During 1925 he played for Selangor and last year was a member of the Kedah eleven.

Dr. P. H. HENNESSY (Perak).—Dr. Hennessy is another old stager and still one of the best bowlers in the country. His performance against the Hong Kong team last year will not be forgotten for a long time.

J. D. HUSSEY (Perak).—Formerly one of Selangor's best batsmen. A very reliable and powerful left handed batsman.

THEO. LEISSIUS (Singapore Recreation Club).—Learnt his cricket at St. Xavier's School, Penang. Coming to Singapore in 1911, he has been a valuable player for the S.R.C. both in cricket and football, and now, at the age of 35, is as good as ever he was. As a bowler he belongs to the "medium slow variety."

Since the inauguration of the Europeans v. The Rest fixture in Singapore for the Clarke Challenge trophy, Leissius has topped in individual scores on two occasions, and last year he scored 93.

He has also represented Singapore in several matches between the Colony and F.M.S., playing first in 1919.

A. P. PENMAN (Selangor).—Has represented New South Wales and is to-day the fastest bowler in the country. He is quite a steady bat.

V. E. H. RHODES (Negri Sembilan).—With the exception of Hampton, Rhodes is the most spectacular batsman in the country and one of the finest fielders too. The rapidity with which he scores and the grace of his action have made him one of the most popular players in the F.M.S.

According to Straits papers, the Australian team were due to arrive at Singapore at daylight on Monday last.

The team is composed of:—W. A. Oldfield (N.S.W.), W. M. Woodfull (Victoria), Charles G. Macartney (N.S.W.) (capt.), T. J. E. Andrews (N.S.W.), S. Everett (N.S.W.), Mayne, Warren Bardsley (N.S.W.), H. S. Gamble, E. J. Sullivan, Dr. E. F. Rofe and E. W. Adams.

ACCOMMODATION AT THE CRICKET CLUB.

As it is anticipated that the seating capacity of the S.C.C. Pavilion will be taxed to the utmost and be insufficient for the accommodation of members, the Committee decided to refuse application under rule XIX (a) so that non-members resident in Singapore shall not be introduced to the Club as visitors on the days when the matches against the Australians are being played.

This ruling does not apply to ladies who are members of the household of a member.

SEDITION IN SINGAPORE.

BOLSHEVIK "LITERATURE" SEIZED.

HYLAMs COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.

A variety of seditious publications and documents written in Chinese were displayed in the Second Singapore Police Court when the preliminary enquiry touching the arrest of two Hylams in a house in Hastings Road was held.

Mr. N. H. P. Whitley for the Crown, stated that the house was a coffee shop run by the second accused, the first accused being an assistant. The documents found by the police in the house came under the description contained in the Seditious Publications Ordinance.

Detective Inspector Tongue said he visited No. 1, Hastings Road, at about 2.15 on April 11th last. A number of Hylams occupied the front room on the upper floor while the second accused stayed in the back room. As he caught sight of the second accused, the Hylam threw something out of a window. This was later recovered and proved to be a Kuomintang membership card. The accused was also in possession of four books at the time.

Amongst the publications produced by the witness in the course of his evidence were copies of the Guide Weekly, The People's Weekly, A Treatise on Imperialism, China as a Nation, and in addition to these there was a circular.

Mr. Black, Protector of Chinese, gave evidence of having examined the publications and documents produced as exhibits. He said that the Guide Weekly was banned from importation into the Colony by a Government notification published in the Gazette in 1925.

The four books which had been referred to were works by Chan Tock Seng, China's leading Communist and Bolshevik propagandist. Both the accused were committed for trial before the next Assizes.

RUBBER SMUGGLING AT SINGAPORE.

BOAT WITH FALSE BOTTOM.

A well worked-out scheme to conceal rubber in a boat with false bottom in order to smuggle it to the Dutch Islands lying across the Straits was foiled by the commendable efforts of Capt. Alfred Cook Master of the Penang of the Government Preventive Fleet, says the Malayan Observer. A haul of nearly forty pikuls of rubber found in that Chinese boat manned by only two Teochews was made off Pulo Besar on the 5th instant.

The sailing boat was apparently loaded with firewood, and seemed to end with it, but there was another compartment under this false bottom which the Captain had been able to detect when he boarded the boat, and as a result he found the rubber.

The Captain gave evidence as to how he sighted the boat and after an hour's chase he boarded it and eventually detected the false-bottom. Mr. Cuscuden, Controller of Export Duties, then said he weighed the rubber and found it to be thirty-six pikuls and seventy-one kattes. In his defence accused No. 1 said he was employed by another Chinese in Singapore, to bring the boat to Bangkok, and he only knew he had a cargo of firewood. Accused No. 2 said he was assistant to No. 1. This closed the case and Mr. Brownings informed his Worship that the rubber would fetch a price of $2,500. The Magistrate found them guilty and sentenced them each to a fine of $500 or 6 months' r.i. and ordered the confiscation of the boat, and its cargo.

SIR HUGH CLIFFORD AND MALAYAN CRICKET.

In the course of a farewell message to Ceylon cricketers, Sir Hugh Clifford says:—When I first knew Malaya, it was customary for cricketers from the Straits Settlements and Malaya States periodically to pay visits to Hong Kong, Shanghai and Yokohama on the one side and to Ceylon on the other; it being also customary for Ceylon teams to visit Taiping, Kuala Lumpur and Singapore for the purpose of playing return matches.

"I personally think that much would be gained by reviving this ancient practice; and when I arrive in Malaya I hope to sound the leading Clubs in that Colony and protectorate with a view to ascertaining whether teams designed to play All-Ceylon at every conceivable spot from, as the saying is 'pitch and toss to manslaughter,' cannot once more be formed and sent here."

CHICAGO'S CHOICE.

ALL ABOUT HER NEW MAYOR AND HIS ELECTION.

COMPLIMENTS FOR KING GEORGE AND GREAT BRITAIN.

"PLEASANT" RECORD OF PREVIOUS PERIOD OF OFFICE.

New York, April 26th. "Elect me, and I'll bust King George in the snout if he doesn't keep it out of Chicago," cried Big Bill Thompson some hours before the election. The indomitable mayor-elect came to an end three days ago. "Snout" is colloquial American for "snout." Big Bill is now Mayor of Chicago, the second largest city on the American continent—soon, doubtless, to be the third city of the world in size, population and wealth. Thompson is to be the autocrat of Chicago for a term of four years. He was Mayor before for eight years (1915-23). He has climbed once again to that important office with the unwilling aid of the King of England. My travels, it is claimed, took me into Chicago twice during the campaign, and here, in rough outline, is the plain story of an episode which our theorists should find in illustration of that popular subject for debate—"Can Political Democracy Survive?"

An Interval Of Decent Government.

For the past four years the Mayor of Chicago has been William E. Dever (rhymed with Never), an American of Irish stock, a Democrat and a Catholic; not independent of the Democratic bosses, but by general consent a good civil administrator who has given Chicago an interval of decent government, admirably clean, at all events by contrast with the abominations of the Thompson regime. "Think of Chicago: Vote for Dever," was his slogan. It was good enough, not only for all regular Democrats, but for many thousands of citizens who commonly vote the Republican ticket, and for all the non-party advocates of clean government. I found many groups of Chicago people, representing every shade of political opinion, working for Dever with extraordinary intensity. Party lines were obliterated to a surprising extent. The best of Chicago was striving to avert an intolerable calamity.

An Astounding Creature.

It was no go. The doom had been pronounced. Chicago was destined to another spell of Big Bill, who, after attaining a record triumph in the party primary, gained a majority over Mayor Dever of 95,000 votes, on a poll of nearly one million. Thompson is an astounding creature. I cannot pretend to draw his portrait, but you perhaps form some notion of his character and ways if I make a selection of certain incidents which might be described as exercises in his milder manner.

William Hale Thompson is a New Englander, coming of a good family. He went from Boston to Chicago in boyhood, and in due course made his way into local politics, on the Republican side. Always known as a champion vote-getter, he enjoys an unlimited popularity with "the boys." The story of his political rise, his command over the mob, his power of enlisting devotees, is a story that no student of democratic practice should neglect. His first mayoral term began in the opening year of the Great War, and Thompson was labelled Chicago's pro-German Mayor. He earned national notoriety for refusing a civic reception to Joffre on the ground that Chicago was the sixth German city of the world. Thompson, of course, was respectful to the large German vote, and one of the few things I have heard of in opposition to the sudden war hysteria which followed the period of American neutrality. Opinions differ in Chicago as to the degree of Thompson's turpitude in office.

There are those who assert that he was "the worst ever." It is personal; others who hold that he is personally a good enough fellow, but the predestined victim of the gangs and the crooks. However that be, there can be no dispute over the main facts of his eight years' administration. It left Chicago at the lowest depth of middle, corruption, and graft. Investigations and prosecutions revealed a loathsome condition of affairs in the City Hall, and in 1923 all decent Chicago rejoiced over the advent of Mayor Dever, believing that Thompson had vanished for ever from the scene.

They forgot the romantic appeal of Big Bill and the grateful memories cherished by "the boys." Not many months ago he re-emerged, and it was at once evident that Mayor Dever was in imminent peril. As invariably happens in the warfare against civic corruption, the good citizens for the most part "fell on sleep." Thompson and his backers got to work in every district of Chicago. They understand the multiple character of a great American city. They know the melting-pot to be a social and literary fiction. "America First" was the Thompson slogan—the patriotic swindle, as the New York World calls it, but it did not for a moment get in the way of his thoroughgoing scheme for organizing the electorate in racial units.

Exploiting The Colour Question.

Thompson's bid for the Negro vote was one of the outstanding features of the campaign. Since the restrictions upon immigration Chicago has greatly increased its Negro population. Their votes amount to tens of thousands, and Thompson angled for them in so shameless a fashion that his opponents looked for a rebound among the white voters to the advantage of Dever. Naturally the decent Democrats refrained from exploiting the black-and-white issue; but none the less did they take care to point out that the great incursion of Negroes from the South had taken place when Thompson was mayor, that he had shockingly neglected the problems of congestion created by their coming, and that he was in executive charge of the city when Chicago was disgraced by a horrible series of race riots immediately after the War.

Real American Stuff.

Thompson fought throughout with a staggering combination of ignorance and impudence, bluffness and coarseness. A leading opponent who had formerly been one of his lieutenants caused a tempest of derision by declaring that the one and only set speech being delivered by Big Bill in the mayoral campaign had been written by himself for Thompson five years earlier, when he was running for the senate; and as the speech was full of grotesque passages about the League of Nations, nobody could doubt the accuracy of the assertion. Thompson (apart from King George, who was dragged into every speech) had two weapons for hourly use; he shouted "Liar" and "crook" at Mayor Dever and every one of his prominent supporters, and (as the Americans say) he "pulled the roughest stuff" in his more expansive flights.

Now let us come to King George in this unexampled farrago. I write a typical passage of a non-hour speech—they were all like this. "I want to make the King of England keep his snout out of America. I don't want the League of Nations. I don't want the World Court. America first, last, and always—that's what Big Bill Thompson wants. . . . The only thing they've got against Big Bill Thompson is that he doesn't get up and sing 'God save the King' before breakfast!"

But what in the world, you ask, does it all mean? What has Britain to do with Chicago? Who in England is searing this quaint imbecile, and how does he contrive to get the royal family into it? I asked, naturally, about King George. Was it George the Third or our good King, the fifth of the name? No one in Chicago seemed to know, and everyone was sure that Thompson himself did not know. We may, however, come a little nearer to finding out if we examine Mr. Thompson's preoccupation with the history text-books used in the Chicago schools, all of these being, according to the Mayor, composed with the purpose of corrupting American youth in the interest of the British Monarchy. He made it known that one of his first actions after the victory would be the dismissal of Mr. McAndrew, Superintendent of Schools, who is nothing but "the stool pigeon of King George," and he seems to have reached the apex of absurdity in the statement that the men appointed by Mayor Dever to be on the Chicago School Board were not prosecuted in the criminal courts only because King George V. saved them from the due reward of their misdeeds.

All's Fair: Full Page Lies.

One might suppose that it would be difficult for even Big Bill to go beyond this, but he did it. In the closing week of the campaign he inserted a full-page advertisement in the Chicago papers, giving the text of a statement attacking Mayor Dever as the authority responsible for text-books telling the story of the American Revolution and the Civil War with a pro-English bias. The signatories were sixteen in number, said to be the names of members of the Chicago Historical Society—the names being Irish, German and Polish. An angry outburst was the result. Some of the alleged signatories repudiated responsibility. It was pointed out that the text-books in question were introduced while Thompson himself was mayor. It was stated from the office that not one of the names printed was on the roll of the Chicago Historical Society. But in the meantime, of course, the advertisement had done its work.

I have before me as I write an interview with Mr. Thompson printed in to-day's issue of the New York Times. Therein the Mayor is quoted as indicating that since his election London has been in a panic and the Horse Guards have been doubled. Scotland Yard, he said, ought to be getting ready to receive some of the gangs of crooks and hoodlums, who are to 21 MILE SWIM.

HONG KONG SWIMMER COMPETING.

MR. A. MAY AND CANADIAN LAKES EVENT.

Mr. A. M. May, a well-known local swimmer and member of the Victoria Recreation Club, will be among the 500 competitors, including some of the best swimmers of Canada, the United States and the World in general, who will compete in a big 21 mile open swimming contest to be held in Canada at the end of August (this year).

The contest is to take place in Lake Ontario, near Toronto, over the distance mentioned, and the first prize is about $25,000 (Gold).

Mr. May told a Daily Press representative that he is not entering with a view to prize money, but merely for the sport of the thing and the experience of coming up against so many swimmers of note. It will be a great trial of strength, speed and endurance and Hong residents who have seen Mr. May on many occasions win local trophies in swimming competitions held under the aegis of the V.R.C. will be keenly interested to learn how he fares in the biggest race he has yet entered for.

"I do not expect to win against the many fine swimmers I shall meet," said Mr. May to our representative, "but I intend to complete the course at any rate."

There would be, Mr. May said, at least 500 entrants, and these will include many champions, including George Young, who holds the championship for the distance. He is a young man of big chest measurement and great physical strength.

Mr. May has been used to swimming in salt water, whereas the race will be in fresh water. This, he says, will not make a lot of difference to him, for his time has never varied when tested over the same distances in both salt and fresh water. One handicap will be the unaccustomed currents, but with practice in the Lake Mr. May will learn something of these before the race comes off.

His Local Record.

Mr. May has an excellent local record. He was third in the Harbinger Race last year, won it the year before and was placed second in previous attempts. He has, of course, won many local events at V.R.C. night fetes, etc. Further he has youth on his side, being only 23 years of age.

When only 9 years of age he swam around stonecutters Island three times. The total distance which he covered being something like 12 miles.

Mr. May has just completed his apprenticeship with the Hong Kong Electric Company, and is going to Canada next month, where he intends taking a job. He was deciding to go to Canada, that he learned about this race and made up his mind to enter.

We say "Good Luck May" and mind you come in first!

JAPAN'S FINANCIAL POSITION.

REPORT TO END OF APRIL.

During April, says a report forwarded to us by the local Japanese Consulate-General, foreign trade of Japan showed a decrease in the excess of imports over exports, the imports having declined compared with the same period of last year.

The money market has shown uneasiness owing to the rejection of the Imperial ordinance bill for straightening the affairs of the Tawank Bank, and the failure of the bank about mentioned and the Jugo Bank, etc.

All banks in Japan were obliged to close their doors on April 22nd and 23rd. The Government having declared a three weeks' moratorium on and after April 22nd.

During the period of the moratorium, business transactions were suspended, the Yokohama Specie Bank changed its exchange quotation several times and the markets showed much depression. However, the Bank of Japan made big advances and it is expected that the straightening out of those banks which failed will be successfully carried out and the financial situation will be more stabilized in future.

Foreign trade of Japan during last month:

Exports	158 million yen
Imports	225 " "
Excess of Imports	67 " "

Trade with China during last month:

Exports	32 million yen
Imports	21 " "
Excess of Exports	11 " "

Raw Silk exported during last month from Yokohama and Kobe: 46,373 bales.

Quotation of Raw Silk for future delivery on Yokohama Silk Exchange on the 10th of this month: 145 yen 60 sen.

Price of Habutae plain "Echizen" 6 m/m 36 ins. x 50 yds. per 100 m/m at Kobe: 12 yen 45 sen.

Output of Cotton Yarn during the last month, 234,359 bales (40 bundles), according to the returns by Japan Spinners' Association.

Quotation of Standard Rice for future delivery on Tokyo Rice Exchange on the 10th of this month: 39 yen 39 sen.

Merchandise in stock throughout the country during the month: 529 million yen.

LONDON-MADE "CHAMPAGNE"

GAS PUMPED INTO GRAPE JUICE.

IMITATION PORT.

Steps are being taken to direct the attention of the Chancellor of the Exchequer to the growth of a wine-manufacturing industry in Great Britain.

Some aspects of the development of this type of business are causing great concern to reputable and old-established houses of wine-producers and distributors, who are preparing to impress on the Government the necessity of either subjecting the British so-called wines to tax—in which case they would certainly disappear from the market—or providing a label approved by the Board of Trade which would be placed on bottles of imported wine to guarantee its genuineness.

The operations of a number of British wine-making firms whose products have begun to be sold very extensively, particularly in industrial districts, are to be discouraged at a special meeting of the Champagne Association with a view not only to impressing the Government with the need for action in the public interest but also to instituting legal proceedings in respect of the methods of some of the manufacturers in describing and labelling the wines.

Sparkle From Gas.

Large premises have been acquired by the firms concerned in and around London, and the manufacture is usually carried on in underground cellars. In some cases what might be bought by the public as champagne or one of the allied sparkling wines is made from concentrated grape juice or dried grapes brought from France, and analysis has shown others of the wines to be prepared also with gooseberry and rhubarb juice. In every case the wine is aerated by pumping carbonic acid gas into the bottles.

A product which resembles port wine but is never actually described as such, although ingenious imitation terms are employed, is also being made on an extensive scale in London, for sale specially in working-class districts of large towns.

For what might be taken to be real champagne or sparkling wines the bottles are adorned with clever labels which do not state that the contents were made in Britain, but convey the suggestion that they are the genuine produce of France.

TILDEN'S KNEE.

U.S. GAMBLE FOR WIMBLEDON.

THE EX-CHAMPION OPTIMISTIC.

New York, April 23rd. Mr. W. T. Tilden and Mr. Francis T. Hunter, the American lawn tennis players, left New York last night for a European tour, during which they will be seen in the Wimbledon tournament.

America has launched its biggest lawn tennis gamble, writes the Daily Mail correspondent.

It is "Bill Tilden's knee against the world."

Viewed from any angle the tour of William T. Tilden—the second American singles champion to be dethroned by the French last season—and Francis T. Hunter, represents a speculation that depends for its success or failure upon whether or not the floating cartilage of the left knee of the famous American behaves. Mr. Tilden, true to his optimistic outlook, believes that the potential powers of a "come-back" stir within him. He is enthusiastic over the prospect of testing his game among the newer giants of the courts in England, France, Germany, and elsewhere.

Mr. Tilden said to me:

It is six years since I have been abroad for competition. That has made a vast difference. It was in 1920 and 1921 that I won at Wimbledon. That was on the old field. Brian Norton stood as challenger against me in the latter year. We had a terrific match; which, by the way, was the last of the old system of challenge matches.

Real Form Impossible.

If everything goes well—and I believe it will—Hunter and myself will play on the new Wimbledon field. It will be my first venture there. The things we may accomplish abroad depend upon the behaviour of my knee.

Some time ago—exactly when I don't know—the cartilage on one side of my left knee became torn. Last spring I injured it again. Then I should have rested and let it heal. Instead, I persisted in playing, with the result that inflammation set in and real form for me became impossible.

Before Lacoste had finished me I knew I was beaten. I could not be otherwise with such a handicap.

"You are quite right," he laughed, when I reminded him that the "slow-motion" pictures reveal that he plays his lawn tennis chiefly with his legs. "I fancy that leg work is easily the greater part of my game. What my racket may do and accomplish depends upon the activities of my legs. Probably no other player on the courts, with the exception of Manuel Alonso, depends so much upon his legs as I do. That is the reason why my game went to pieces when my knee began to give me trouble. The knee has been behaving nicely during the Florida and Southern tournaments."

German "Mystery."

Mr. Tilden went on to say that Mr. Hunter and himself were going abroad as lawn tennis ambassadors. They were anticipating a renewal of old friendships and the establishment of valued new ones.

The Germans appear to be the present lawn tennis mystery at present. We meet Germans first at Berlin from May 5th to 8th. According to all reports, Dr. Heinz Landmann and Herr Moldenhauer are able players. We shall see. Anyway, we shall have a part in solving the German riddle.

HOME OF IZAAK WALTON.

DESTROYED BY FIRE.

The half-timbered, thatched cottage at Shallowford, Staffordshire, for six years the home of Izaak Walton, author of "The Compleat Angler," has been burned out, only the walls remaining.

Three years ago the cottage, then in a ruinous condition, was restored and re-roofed at a cost of about £600 contributed by people all over the world, and was opened as a memorial to Izaak Walton, who lived there from 1644 to 1680, after retiring from business as an iron-monger in Fleet Street and Chancery Lane.

It stood near Norton Bridge Station, on the London Midland and Scottish Railway, and it is thought that a spark from a passing train, or from the chimney of the caretaker's cottage, may have set fire to the thatch.

The local fire brigade drew water from the neighbouring river, in which Izaak Walton used to fish.

WORLD CIRCUIT IN 12 DAYS.

FORTY PASSENGERS IN A GIANT AIRSHIP.

GERMAN AIR BID.

MADRID.

Around the world in twelve days! This is the startling project of Dr. Hugo Eckener, who flew from Friedrichshafen to New York in the ZRS, and who now proposes to circumnavigate the globe, in three hops of four days each, in another giant dirigible.

Dr. Eckener, who is the head of the Zeppelin factories at Friedrichshafen, has been in Madrid in connection with the negotiations which have been proceeding for some time for the organisation of a passenger, mail, and goods service by Zeppelin between Spain and South America. He said that it is now certain that the service will be established, and that an airship which will make regular flights between Seville and Buenos Aires is now being built at Friedrichshafen.

It is in this airship, which will be able to carry forty passengers and ten tons of mails, that Dr. Eckener proposes to fly round the world. He referred to his project when I asked him if he had heard of the plan of Major Herrera, the well-known Spanish aviator, to make a non-stop flight round the world in a dirigible in twenty-three days.

A New Fuel.

"Yes," Dr. Eckener replied, "but it seems to me that twenty-three days is too long. He should defer making this attempt until the new fuel, 'etano' gas, which we shall use instead of petrol is perfected, for it will permit of a greater speed than that which Herrera contemplates. I also intend making a round-the-world flight in the Zeppelin of 165,000 cubic metres now under construction at Friedrichshafen. This flight will be made in three 'hops,' each of four days. These 'hops' will be as follows:—Friedrichshafen to Vladivostok; Vladivostok to Vancouver; Vancouver to Friedrichshafen. No stop will be longer than six hours, just long enough to refuel. I think that this flight, apart from its scientific value, will be the best possible advertisement for our Seville-to-South America service."

Dr. Eckener said that he knew that a French company had been given a contract by the Argentine Government for the carriage of mails by air, but he did not think that this was of an exclusive character, and if it were, his airship would go to Montevideo, in Uruguay, instead of Buenos Aires. It was only a matter of an hour's flight between the two cities.

Furthermore, Dr. Eckener added, the French company intended to use seaplanes. The running expenses of such machines were higher than those of airships. The French company would have to charge 6s. an ounce for mails, whereas a Zeppelin would be able to carry ten or even twenty ounces if necessary for the same sum.

I asked Dr. Eckener whether, even if he should not obtain the mail contract for South America, he would carry passengers across the Atlantic.

Airship's Advantages.

"Certainly I shall," he replied. "For long-distance trips the airship is greatly superior to the airplane. An airplane uses a great deal more fuel than an airship. The bigger the airplane the heavier its running expenses. No air line operating airplanes can maintain itself without a heavy subsidy, generally amounting to 75 per cent. or 80 per cent. of its expenses. Even the London-Paris line, which carries the heaviest traffic of any in the world, works at a loss. Airship lines, on the other hand, can meet their expenses without a Government subsidy. Moreover, travelling by airplane is noisy and tiring, while a trip in an airship is not unlike a journey in a steamer."

"Airplanes are good for short distances, but for long trips the airship is the better craft. Airships can operate at any time of the year and in any weather, and on long non-stop journeys such as the run from Seville to Buenos Aires they have sufficient reserve of fuel to enable them to avoid storm centres by going, if necessary, out of their direct course. I am convinced that the future belongs to the airship."

"The Allies did all they could, for military reasons, to delay the development of airships. That is why the public thinks more of airplanes just now. But wait until we are free to build airships again. You will see then what a Zeppelin can do. The value of the Zeppelin will be shown by the result of the Friedrichshafen-Vladivostok-Vancouver-Friedrichshafen trip."

OLD MAN MADE YOUNG.

COST OF EXTRA KEEP CLAIM-ED FROM REJUVENATOR.

COPENHAGEN.

Science pursues its victorious march not only in the great centres of culture, but also in the far North, in Iceland.

A physician, John Sveinsson, in Hvamstangi, recently operated on a workhouse pensioner, a man between 70 and 80 years of age, for hernia, and at the same time suggested that the old man should undergo an operation for rejuvenation according to the principles of Professor Strömberg. The wasted old man, who did not think that he could lose much, acceded to the suggestion.

The old man's vitality was renewed, and he is even taking an interest in the women inhabitants of the place. He had his board and lodging with a family in the small town at the expense of the community, and this family has asked for an increase of the money paid for him, as he is more difficult to maintain.

The parish council protests that the physician had no right to perform the operation without the knowledge and consent of the council, and has brought an action against the physician claiming that he should pay about £17 a year while the old man lives, this being the additional amount which the parish council would have to pay for his living.

DAILY WATERFRONT NEWS.

HARBOUR CELEBRATES QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY.

AN UNWILLING PASSENGER GAOLED.

[BY LONGSHOREMAN.]

In celebration of Her Majesty's Queen Mary's 60th birthday, ships in the harbour yesterday were dressed and the usual salute was fired at noon. With bright sunshine the whole day, the harbour presented a very gay scene.

Stowaway's Story: Frequent of Ships and Temples.

When an Indian was charged before Major C. Willson, at the Central Magistracy yesterday, with entering into the Colony as a stowaway and without a proper passport, he told the Magistrate that he was brought to Hong Kong against his will.

His story was to the effect that he was the keeper of the Sikh temple at Singapore, and one day he went on board of the Kun Sang to look up some of his countrymen. While there, he had a few drinks of rum, and having imbibed a bit too freely, he measured his length on the deck and into a deep sleep. When he awoke, he found himself at sea, literally and metaphorically.

With the resignation of a born fatalist, he made no attempt to fight against fate and allowed the ship to bring him to Hong Kong. During the voyage no one bothered about him and as his countrymen on board the ship had an ample supply of food and rum, well, what could a man desire more?

On arrival here he sought shelter under the roof of the Sikh temple at Happy Valley and there the Police unearthed him.

The Magistrate after patiently listening to his story, sent him to gaol for one month.

Theft On A Warship.

A metal watch worth $25 was reported stolen on board H.M.S. Weymouth, while she was alongside the naval dockyard Wednesday afternoon.

Cooley Woman Injured.

While a sling full of hemp sacks was being lowered into the Kowloon Godown lighter No. 54, on Wednesday, from the s.s. President Cleveland, it bumped against the awning beam of the lighter and broke away from the rope. The sacks fell on a cargo coolie woman and injured her about the head and arms. She was removed to the Kwong Wah Hospital.

Chinese Passengers' Entry.

There were 634 Chinese deck passengers entering the Colony during the 24 hours ended at 9 a.m. yesterday. These were brought by six steamers.

The Canton Service.

The s.s. Lungshan has gone into dock for overhaul and repairs, and the Hong Kong Canton Service is now being carried out by the Tai-shan, Kinsan and Fatshan. The regular service is being maintained, and the steamer which leaves Canton at 8 a.m. each day leaves here for Canton at one o'clock the following morning. The steamer arriving here from Canton at nine o'clock in the evening leaves again at eight o'clock the next morning.

Government Ammunition.

The s.s. Trebartha from Europe brought 85 tons of government ammunition yesterday.

Miscellaneous Matters.

H.M.S. Irquais (Commander A. L. Jackson, R.N.), arrived at Singapore last week, after being engaged in survey work in the vicinity.

The British-Hispano Line, a Cardiff shipping company, has changed its name to the Fairweather Shipping Co., Ltd. Osaka is being spent on accommodation alterations to the American liner Leviathan. Similar alterations are to be made on the George Washington.

The new steamer, Lips, for the Straits Steamship Co., arrived in port at Singapore last week. She is commanded by Capt. G. W. Allan, and is a vessel of 400 tons net, and 843 tons gross. She carries a crew of 28 and is registered at Singapore.

On The "Mantua."

The P. & O. s.s. Mantua arrived yesterday afternoon from Home, bringing the mail of London, April 29th, and parcels a week earlier. She had on board about 100 passengers, of whom 30 first-class passengers disembarked here, 34 second-class passengers, and eight servants. The steamer leaves for Shanghai at daylight and for that port and the North are ten first-class passengers and 12 second-class passengers. The P. & O. s.s. Mantua, is due in port today from the North, and will sail on Saturday at noon, carrying the Home mail, and passengers.

Another arrival late on Wednesday evening was the Blue Funnel Line s.s. Sarpodon, with 12 passengers for Hong Kong.

Died At Sea.

The master of the Ganges Maru reports the death at sea of one Chinese deck passenger, between Tawau and Hong Kong, from gastric ulcers. The funeral was at sea.

Pirates' Dens Raided.

Upon the arrival here of the s.s. Sarpodon on the Hong Kong-Watow run, it was reported by men on board the steamer that early on Wednesday morning, while the boat was passing the Eastern and Western Marling districts, along the West River, four Chinese gunboats and a large junk, full of Chinese soldiers, were seen on the way to raid well-known pirates' dens in the above-mentioned district. The seamen added that pirates could be seen retreating along the hills on both sides of the river-banks.

Stevens' Beacon And Penguin Shoal.

A notice to mariners has been issued by the Acting Commissioner of Customs at Pochoo that from June 7, Stevens' Point Beacon will be temporarily removed for repairs. Stevens' Point will be marked by a sampan carrying a red flag by day and a fixed red light by night. In the event of bad weather, this mark may have to be temporarily removed.

Dredging Operations.

The Harbour Master issues a notice for the information of Masters of all vessels that on and after 1st June, 1927 and until further notice, dredging operations will be carried out in the vicinity of Penguin Shoal. Three timber dolphins marked by red flags by day and red fixed lights at night will be constructed in the Navigation channel and will form a danger to navigation. Masters of all vessels are warned to proceed dead slow when approaching and passing this area.
